MUSTANG

VOLUME 14

MYERS PARK HIGH SCHOOL

Charlotte, North Carolina

Editor Rosemary Hill • Business Manager Susan Hout

Dedicated to UNTIRING . . .

in his efforts to maintain Myers Park's high standards

UNDERSTANDING . . .
in his handling of difficult disciplinary problems

DEVOTED . . .
to honesty and fair play in all fields

INTERESTED . . . in the individual student

For fourteen years of dedicated service to Myers Park, first as basketball coach, later as head of the athletic department and assistant principal, we proudly dedicate the 1965 MUSTANG to Mr. George Powell.

Mr. George Powell

A familiar sight to many is Mr. Powell working behind his desk, for long after others have gone home he can often be found there. As assistant principal Mr. Powell has the never-easy job of administering most school disciplinary action.

Long connected with athletics and Myers Park's athletic department, Mr. Powell takes up tickets at all home basketball games, but he is never too busy to speak to students.

—Amy Lowell

Park: a pattern of faces, sites

Like the flowers of a garden, or the events of a life, a day at school follows a pattern: crowds in SC before school, homeroom announcements, lunch lines, studying in the library, the last bell at the end of the day.

ACTIVITIES

Activities means service projects, committee meetings . . .

Practice makes perfect the various formations displayed by the band

Football games would not be complete without the eighty-eight piece marching band. Co-ordinating marching routines to music, the band has a large repertoire of unique formations. Fans seated in the stands catch the glitter of the uniforms and the recurrent sparkle of each instrument as the band performs under the floodlights. Majorettes, lettergirls, drum majors, color guards, and flagbearers work with the band in displaying skill as well as in entertaining for the spectators.

With spirit to spare the band plans various additional shows. The Myers Park band, along with twenty-seven other bands from North and South Carolina, proudly marched in the Carousel Parade and in the Shrine Parade. The winter concert featured the concert band performing with the symphonic band. Another concert was held in the spring. Again the State Band Contest was held in Greensboro. Most of the members of the concert band also play in the marching band.

Ready at half-time to march on the field, Rick Sterling gives final instructions to Bill Hunt, Joe Goodwin, and Raymond Snyder.

Filing out of the gym after the last football pep rally, band members spiritedly play "When the green and white fight, fight."

Interlocking hearts are formed as the band plays "I could have danced all night". Football fans always look forward to half-time entertainment when they get to see the final production of many hours' work towards another spectacular show.

MP joins other area schools in Band Bowl

Two particular events prove to Myers Park students that band members are proud to serve their school. In November the band participated in a marching pageant at Memorial Stadium. Sponsored by the Jaycees, the Band Bowl raised money for the Park Shell, an open-air concert area for Freedom Park. Supporting Rick Arrington in the Shrine Bowl game, Myers Park's band was the only one that remained in spite of the rain.

Among the majorettes, lettergirls, and the band is an air of gaiety which can be classified as school spirit. Erwin Heeseman and Ginger Rollins, FOREGROUND, beam with enthusiasm as half-time festivities get under way.

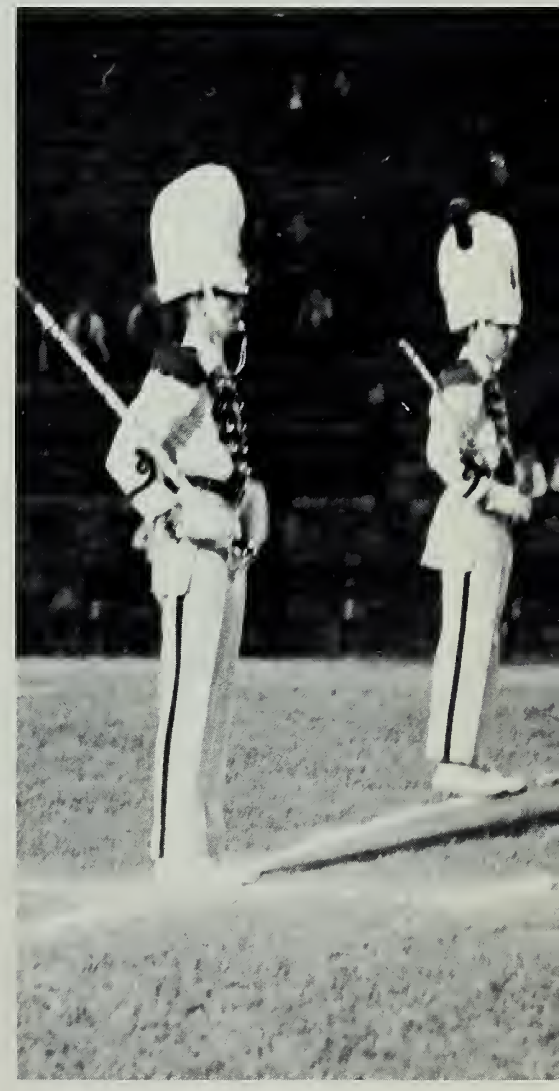
Majorettes, lettergirls, and Millie Mustangs urge spirit at games

Appearing on the days of Mustang games and displaying the school colors are the majorettes, lettergirls, and Millie Mustangs. These girls, wearing their green and white uniforms, remind students that there is a game that needs the support of all fans. Each is so much a part of the Myers Park spirit that games would lack a certain vivaciousness without them. Always smiling and cheering the team on, the girls affect the mood of the crowd. Each group of girls has an individual function. Mingling among the students in the bleachers, the two Millie Mustangs circulate and activate school spirit. During football season the lettergirls add their refreshing touch when marching at half-time with the band. Batons are second nature to the majorettes who skillfully display their talents. Always present at athletic events, this feminine crew contributes much to the excitement of games.

Posed in uniform array with their boots, hats, and batons are the seven majorettes of Myers Park. Ginger Rollins, Pat Harris, Carol Brownscombe, Head Brenda Gillespie, Sandy Hatcher, Sandy Heacock, and Mary Barden performed during the football season.

Drum majors, Gary Colbert and Jim Hobbs, stand erect and poised with their batons as Gary blows the starting whistle.



Cheerleaders

Little do people realize how much practice actually goes into cheerleading. Co-ordinating actions with words, the varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders perform gymnastic feats, and as a consequence, have strained muscles and scratchy throats. Nevertheless, their work does not go unnoticed, for cheerleading is the central feature of school spirit, and school spirit is a necessary part of Myers Park's athletic events.

While the crowd cheers, the basketball players are given a few pointers by Coach Hartman. It is time-out at the Myers Park-Garinger basketball game, and the cheerleaders aim to continue supporting the Mustangs with their cries for victory. The lettergirls and basketball fans join the cheerleaders in a favorite cheer, "We love Mustangs."

The nine varsity cheerleaders composed of junior and senior girls are Martha Gray Cochrane, Ellen Weddington, Cheryl Brit-

Waving their pom-poms high in the air and bursting with excitement at the first football game of the season, the cheerleaders rush forward leading the football team. In the introductory performance the band makes a pathway for the stampede to victory.

At Park Center ten vivacious cheerleaders urge the junior-varsity basketball team to win their game with South.

increase spirit at football, basketball games

Not only have the cheerleaders given their full support at all of the Myers Park games, but also at the special pep-rallies held on the campus and in the gym. Spirited cries were heard all over the school when a pep rally was held around the cafeteria patio. Perhaps the best rally of the year was when the whole student body gathered around the front circle to cheer the basketball team off on their trip to Greensboro for the state finals.

All attention is given to Patsy as she talks to the student body about the importance of supporting the team with enthusiastic school spirit.

Intently watching the football game and hoping for the best, is head varsity cheerleader, Patsy Rouzer. The team thrives on the cheerleaders' undying support.

Elected from the sophomore class, Gwynn Tathwell, Betsy Smith, Cathy Harkey, Sally Hill, Doris Dixon, Betsy Austin, Missy Stewart, Jonelle Logan, Donna Brown, Margaret Jordan, Mary Babcock, and Donna Clemmer are headed by Mary Reid.

Sue Woods's facial expression shows that she is putting her whole heart into yelling for the Mustangs at a pep rally.

Red Cross knits hats for needy

Patty Craig and Sally Seanor work on posters during the Red Cross annual drive to encourage each student to join.

Led by President Janet Harkey, the Red Cross planned and carried out numerous activities benefiting Myers Park and the community this year. In November members put together crossword puzzles for the hospitals and rest homes.

The Red Cross provided yarn for any MP student who wanted to knit a ski cap for needy families at Christmas. Immediately knitting needles and balls of yarn appeared at lunch tables and in the Student Lounge. Approximately twenty hats were turned in before Christmas. The members made boxes of homemade cookies for orphanages on Valentine's Day.

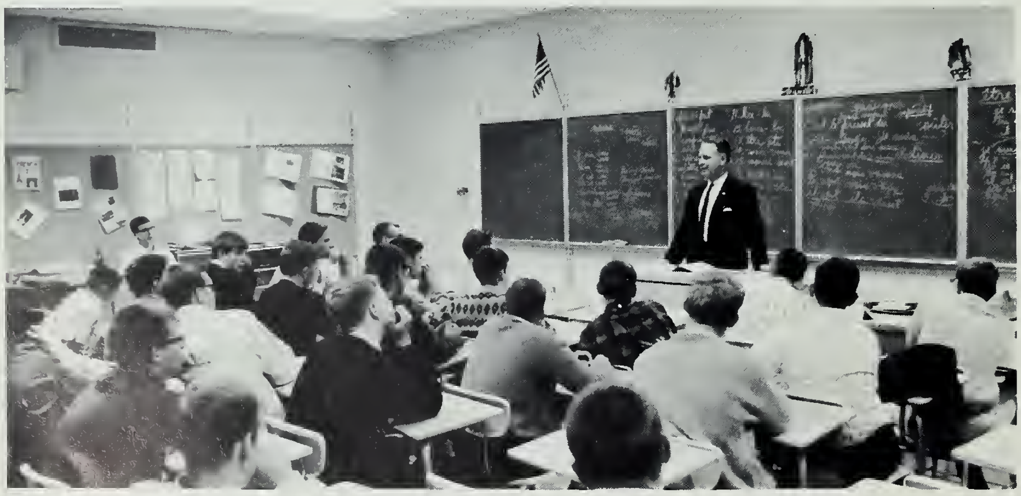
Engineers visit electrical schools

Engineers Club Officers: Sgt.-at-arms Kohler, Sec. Huntley, Pres. Stucky, Treas. Granger, V.P. Stuart Yarus.

The Myers Park Engineering Club made a field trip to NC State and completed projects to better the school. The club staged a clean-up campaign to keep the campus neat and free of litter during October, and each month the members had a pick-up day. In November the members gave devotions over the inter-com each day in homeroom. This year's field trip was a visit to North Carolina State College where the boys toured the Electronical Engineering Department. An interesting speaker talked to the club on the fascinating laser bean and explained its development and future.

Mr. Todd, Dick Todd's father, speaks to the October meeting of the Engineers Club about the use of steam to produce electricity. Throughout the year, the club had many Charlotte business men come and discuss with the members different phases of engineering.



Stucky, Huntley, Granger, Betts, Hawkins, Sparks, and Ibach prepare to zoom off to visit NC State Engineering Department.

Phil Van Hoy, checks the names of the Mustang Medics as they prepare to board the bus for their trip to Duke University. The members toured the hospital, ate lunch in the school cafeteria, and attended the Duke-State football game before returning to Charlotte.

Mustang Medics make trip to Duke Hospital

Mustang Medics, advised by Mrs. Devereux, Dr. Dulin, and Mrs. McCradken, work to provide information about health careers to all interested students. On October 8, the club chartered two buses to take club members to Duke for a tour of the hospital and to see the State-Duke football game. The hospital tour included the outpatient department, central supply, the surgical wing, and the ward clinic. Following the tour, the students saw a film, "The Quest Without End," about Duke University Hospital's expansion and development. The Mustang Medics ate lunch on the campus before leaving for the game. Through out the year, several doctors came to talk to the club on their respective fields of medicine. Another program was a panel discussion on Medicare. In May, the clubbers served as guides for a medical convention held in Charlotte. Mustang Medics served Myers Park by preparing exhibits for LA showcase windows about various health professions and by selling programs at benefit games to increase the Myers Park High School Athletic Fund. The members served the community by helping in the Charlotte Hospitals and clinics.

Dr. Van Hoy and Dr. Robiseck enjoy talking after the October meeting of the Mustang Medics. They discussed open-heart surgery, explaining the complex machines involved and the lives this operation has saved in the past few years.

Mustang Medics Officers: Secretary Allison Armstrong, President Phil Van Hoy, and Vice President Claudette Harloe.

roaden members knowledge of foreign countries

This year's French Club continued o raise the intellectual and cultural evel of Myers Park through giving tudents a better understanding of rance and its language. The pro- ram for a fall meeting of the club, eld October 20, was a talk on rance by four Myers Park students, ob Austin, Peggy Barnes, Lin Opold, and Nancy Teat, who toured nd studied in France this past sumer. Each student spoke about his ersonal experiences while abroad. he club's Christmas project was ecorating a display-case window in A. The window, showing Christas in France, held a manger scene nd a French Bible. Myers Park has unique French course for adanced students. The French V ourse, conducted entirely in French, eals completely with conversation.

Christmas in the Spanish Club has now become the biggest event of the year. For the first time, the Spanish Club had a sumptious banquet, held in the cafeteria on December 17. After the Spanish-style dinner, several traditional games were played, including the annual breaking of the pinata. The club arranged a display case window filled with Spanish clothes, customs, and bullfighting posters. Various members, in their free time, helped the Spanish teachers check papers and record grades. The club's main purpose is to acquaint the students of Spanish with the language and with Spanish-speaking countries. Throughout the year, the Spanish students benefited from the use of the language lab to perfect their pronunciation.

Der deutsche Verein — translation for the German Club — added another interesting year of activities for the members. This language club gives students a chance to learn about the country and its language. As a continuation of last year's project, the club bought two more German history books. Following the example set by the "Peanuts" comic strip, the students celebrated Beethoven's Birthday. Midyear, the members gathered available material about Germany and organized it into two display case windows; in so doing, they provided all students a first-hand look at Germany's way of life. The window included posters of industries, typical dress, examples of literature and art, and a comparison of German and English words.

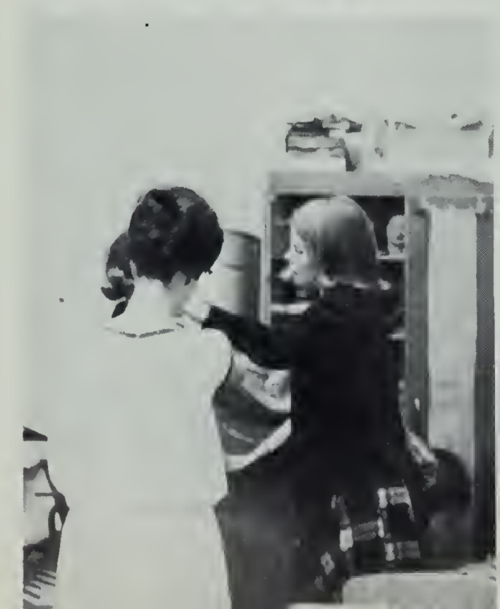
Banquet is height of Latin Week

Latin Club, the most active language club, has worked this year toward the preservation of Latin in the secondary schools. All Latin clubbers have life long membership in the Junior Classical League, a national organization of all Latin students. Each year members take the annual trip to the State J.C.L. Convention. The programs at the bi-weekly meetings are often sparked by spontaneous wit and humor, sometimes to the dismay of advisor Mrs. Wright.

In April, the club held Latin Week, a culmination of the year's activities. It included a slave auction and the banquet when the Rex and Regina were crowned. Roman costumes were worn to add to the festive atmosphere with the best costumed student receiving a prize. The best Latin students of the year are rewarded for their efforts. Latin week also means no Latin homework for students.

Cam Curtis, Bobby Stratton, Angus McDonald, and Tommy Ruff characterize great statesmen of their times at a meeting.

Members get ready for a Latin Club skit. Programs presented by the club are often comical as well as interesting.



New members, some in earnest, some in jest, recite the Junior Classical League Pledge as they are inducted into the club. Members are chosen on the basis of their average in First Year Latin or from the other classes by the interest they show in the language.

DE Club offers members many outside activities

The Myers Park Distributive Education Club gives its members an opportunity to learn the principles of the business world by working on part-time jobs during the week.

This main project was a survey of teen-ager's spending habits. With the co-operation of a local bank, the Distributive Education students were able to collect and compile interesting facts on how Charlotte high school students spend their money. All members met in the Student Lounge the night of December 4, to have their annual Christmas party. This informal get-together gave everyone a chance to acquaint himself with the new members of the club. As in the past six years, the Myers Park DE Club again won a three star plaque, one of the few clubs to achieve this award seven straight years. This plaque was presented to the club at the Distributive Education Convention in March. Throughout the year, various speakers talked to the club about their experiences in business. DE Club meetings were held each month on the third Friday during second period.

Working in the mail room at the Charlotte Observer is DE student Bill Humble. One of his many jobs is sealing envelopes.

"Would you like to buy this album," says Martha Steele to a prospective customer. Martha is a DE student who works at Belks.

Thespians act in the round and produce Haunting

One of the most amusing parts of the senior class play, YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU, is when Carlisle Landreth accompanies ballet dancer, Pam Hawkins, with his xylophone. The play depicts the everyday life of a family, each of its members having varied interests. There are many funny and heart-warming scenes in this first play of the year.

The stage in the auditorium is a maze of lights, props, and costumes where dramatic classes and members of the drama club rehearse before rows of empty seats until the real production is given. Countless hours of building sets and memorizing lines are well worth the effort, for there is always satisfaction guaranteed in the various theatrical works of the drama department.

Seniors sponsored You Can't Take It With You, a comical play which helped to raise money for the class figt. Both the Thespians and the Limelighters, along with the student council sponsored the Talent Show. Students enjoyed the show so much — many attending twice — that a fourth presentation was necessary. Effective lighting and scenery enhanced the variety of talent displayed. After auditions were completed and the cast was chosen, plans for Annie Get Your Gun, the yearly musical comedy given in May, got under way. Any student was eligible to try for a part.

Following the script until her stage cue comes is one lone actress. Susan Watson plays the duchess in the senior class play.

"This really isn't as funny as it looks," says solemn-faced Richard Casanova. Working to get the right techniques with make-up takes practice, as students in dramatics classes have learned. Not everyone is lucky enough to be painted as a clown.

of Hill House

Mr. Sizer, director, along with Mr. Browne, scenic designer, Mr. Mims, orchestra director, and Mr. Cronstedt, choral advisor, gave their invaluable support towards another memorable production.

Two organizations in the drama department serve to stimulate and strengthen the appreciation of the dramatic arts of Myers Park. Those persons who are genuinely interested in theatrical work may join the Limelighters, a club which is open to all students. It is designed to further the understanding of all phases of drama, as well as to allow participation in stage productions. After acquiring a minimum number of points by working and acting in all phases of drama, students are invited to join the National Thespian Society. The selected few in the Thespians have strived to perfect dramatics. The Haunting of Hill House, presented in February, was a three-act play given in the arena. All stage directing and set-building was done by the members themselves along with the aid of Mr. Elmore.

Centered under the spotlight is the six-piece combo which performed for the students attending the Talent Show. These skilled musicians are members of the National Music Honor Society and are accomplished in their instrumental fields.

Each participant in the Talent Show joins on stage for the grand finale number, "When the Saints Go Marching In." Performances ranged from singing and dancing to a character portrayal and pantomime skits. The Thespians and Limelighters were co-sponsors of the show. Reappearing in this way, the entertainers refresh the memories of the audience.

Surrounded by the audience, the Thespians portray the complex and psychic characters which appear in the HAUNTING OF HILL HOUSE. Frank Wright and Susan Watson, foreground, deliberate over the strange events of the former night as Gray Payne and Blair Josephs listen.

Key Club hosts State Convention

Project number one of the Key Club this year was helping with barbeque delivery. During the football season, the club presented skits at all pep rallies and bought corsages for the cheerleaders. As in the past, the Key Club Directory was given to all students, free of charge before Christmas. The directory is completely financed through advertisements gathered by the members. Hard work and midnight hours are behind each annual edition. Also, at Christmas, the club helped a needy family.

In the spring, another project of the Key Club was the 1965 Key Club State Convention, held March 12-14 at the Queen Charlotte Hotel. Since they were the host club, the members themselves worked together and handled all correspondence, registration, and financial matters. Five committees, headed by Chairman Van Smith, were created to handle the project. The club expected approximately 800 Key Clubbers and Kiwanians club members from the two Carolinas to attend the convention.

Steve Hope and Charlie Baker talk to Radio Station WGIV president, Mr. Francis Fitzgerald, about the prospect of buying an ad for the Key Club Directory. All Key Club members were responsible for collecting a certain number of ads.

Monogram Club strives for better sportsmanship

TOP: Tommy Carrier prepares to give Monogram Club member, David Spencer, five cents in exchange for, BELOW, a booster card.

Directed by President Tommy MacNeill, this year's Monogram Club continued to promote good sportsmanship and better relations with other schools. Booster tags were a common sight on Fridays before football games. At Christmas, with the help of the Welfare Department, the club members located and helped a needy family. The Monogram Club induction week is a source of continual amusement to the student body, especially during the lunch periods. Each day, during the pledges' servitude, they were invited to participate in invigorating games of leapfrog. Under the direction of their cruel masters, they tumbled from one side of the campus to the other. Of course, the club members, having been through initiations themselves, realized that it is hard work, so they gave the pledges breaks. During these breaks, the initiates indulged in such manly endeavors as proposals of marriage and begging for food. After five days of this torture, the scalped pledges became members-in-good-standing of the Myers Park Monogram Club. During the track and field season, the members assisted at track meets by handling necessary jobs, such as timing, scoring, and measuring. The boys set good examples of sportsmanship for the students at athletic events.

Orchestra members practice to play for concerts

Classroom practice for orchestra members is a necessary portion of what it takes to form a fine orchestra, for only through practice can a musician expect to achieve any degree of perfection. Students who show an interest in music are given grand opportunities for furthering their musical education by participating in the orchestra.

"To foster greater interest in band, orchestral, and choral performances and provide more opportunities for personal musical expression and service to the school, church, and community"—this is the stated purpose of the National Music Honor Society. Its members are chosen for exceptional ability displayed in music, as well as in academic subjects.

The Modern Music Masters, the National Music Honor Society, meet each month for programs given by prominent musicians. Many of the programs on alternate months featured the members themselves performing in ensembles. In the latter part of March a concert, including choral and instrumental music, was given by the Modern Music Masters.

Sophomore Ruth Rendleman plays the first movement of a Beethoven concerto for the Christmas choir and orchestra concert. Myers Park has a number of musically-talented students, such as Ruth, who have as many as three classes each day in the music building.

Modern Music Masters learn about contemporary music from Dr. Stegner, head of the music department at Queens College.

and the musical

Members of the orchestra accompanied the chorus in the presentation of Handel's Messiah. An assembly in January was held, and as a special treat, the student body watched Danny Werts conduct his own overture. Perhaps the biggest job, but the most fun of the year was playing for the musical, Annie Get Your Gun.

Officers of the Modern Music Masters are Landreth, Hite (president), Parker, Bordsen, Whitton, and Stephenson.

Baton held deftly in hand, Danny Werts leads the orchestra in his own original overture. A junior at Myers Park, Danny arranged the music for each section and proudly conducted his piece. Students heard the Werts overture at an assembly held in January.

Percussion instruments are located behind the violin section. Ben Douglas stands ready to come in with his part.

Curiously enough the thumb of Mr. Mims has special emphasis and importance during a concert. This time he signals for volume.

Cellos and bass violins add rich, mellow tones to a musical piece. These students are performing at an assembly concert.

At Christmas, Ambassadors give parties for teachers and children

Ambassadors Patsy Rouzer and Betty Freeman check supplies on the Cheer Cart, before taking it around to patients at Memorial.

The year's activities of the Girl Ambassadors Club began with the New Girls' Tea, given to acquaint the sophomores and new girls with the Ambassadors. Every Saturday, two Ambassadors pushed the Cheer Cart, loaded with toys, candy, gum, and toilet articles, to patients at Memorial Hospital. As the Christmas season approached, the girls decorated a tree on campus and gave a party for the children at Memorial Hospital. Continuing in the Christmas spirit, the girls prepared for the annual Teachers' Banquet, after which original skits were presented to the teachers. The Ambassadors Club is a service organization affiliated with the YWCA. Membership into the club is based on points achieved by participation in school-sponsored activities. Ambassadors initiation is twice a year during which time the "measlies" appear on campus.

Mustang Club spurs school spirit

Mustang Club Officers: Pres. Pam Dellinger, V.P. Elise McGowan, Sec. Ann Miller, and Treas. Stan Hubbard.

Activities buzzed in the Mustang Club this year. The first project was the decoration of SC's halls, foyer, and new cafeteria with crepe paper and posters to encourage school spirit. The club prepared and organized the Student-Faculty game and the Green-White basketball game as one of their enterprises. The profits from these games went to the Interclub scholarship fund and a school project, buying new warm-up jackets for the basketball team. The members came early before each basketball game to stuff programs and sell them. The proceeds from selling these programs were used for the Mustang Club's service project. The members also worked on a card section to use during the basketball games in early February. Promotion of school spirit is the principal purpose of the Mustang Club. Members are voted in the club after they have attained a certain number of points from participation in school activities.

Burgess, Hubbard, Dellinger, Welsh, DeMik, and Squires decorate the new cafeteria as one project of the Mustang Club.

Interact Club holds a banquet for foreign students

The newly-organized Interact Club held a banquet for all foreign exchange students in Charlotte, November 16, at the Selwyn Avenue Presbyterian Church. At the banquet, the foreign students talked to the group for as long as they wished on their particular country. Martine Hoek read a poem in Dutch, and Lulu Tarino played the guitar and sang in Spanish. Two foreign exchange students from Davidson were also present at the dinner. The boys spoke extensively about their countries and travels around the world. Also, the French exchange student from East sang an old ballad in French. Members helped the PTA barbecue by delivering orders. The club's members made a tape recording giving activities at Myers Park and what the Charlotte Interact Club projects were. This tape was sent to England, and the club expected to receive one from England on their activities. The Rotary Club sponsors the Interact Club.

Interact Officers: V.P. John Lundy, Dir. Jud Allen, Sec. Lee Dukes, Pres. Edgar Timberlake, Treas. Phil Van Hoy, Dir. Bruce Hawkins. Lulu Targino, MP's exchange from Brazil, plays the guitar at the Interact banquet.

Loading cameras, dashing across campus to take a picture, and working round the clock in the darkroom is second nature to the MUSTANG photographers. Frank Wright and Chuck McConnell are aided by Mickey McClelland, Philip Wallace, David Foard, Rick Sterling, and Richard Robe Robertson.

Spread out in different sections of the room, the minor staffers help the editors during deadline rush by identifying class pictures, writing copy, and typing senior activity cards. Working in this way, these juniors prepare for their jobs as future major staffers.

Mustang staff

Originality and perseverance are the keys to a successful yearbook. For the past seven years Mustang staffs have received national honors for these qualities. Perhaps the biggest reason that the Myers Park yearbook is such a surprise is that all plans are kept secret until distribution.

Collaborating for the Activities section of the MUSTANG, Kathy Amen and Katherine McCarty play in their workhouse.

Remaining from the staff Christmas party are soft drink bottles, empty plates, full stomachs, and a messy room.

Mr. Browne, the MUSTANG adviser and chief consultant, confers with the Editor-in-Chief, Rosemary Hill, who is responsible for co-ordinating each section of the annual, and the Business Manager, Susan Hout, who handles all of the financial aspects of the yearbook.

works intently, hoping to produce a winning annual

Since last year four positions have been added to the major staff in order to insure a better coverage of school activities. Instead of having one Classes editor, there are three. The Activities section is being handled by a Clubs and an Organizations editor. For the first time there is a Girls' Sports editor. Each division has resulted in smoother operation.

Working as apprentices to the major staff are members of the junior class. These minor staffers receive a sizeable amount of training which will prove valuable next year, for the future editors are chosen from this staff. The production of the annual is dependent upon eight photographers who work continually snapping and developing pictures.

The atmosphere in LA 20 is calm during announcements; otherwise, Journalism III is seldom dull. There will always be parties, laughter, and occasional stereo music as long as Mr. Browne is the annual adviser. Under such conditions, annual work is fun, but there is nothing quite as comforting as knowing that the annual has gone to press.

Three hard-working Classes editors, Lynn Allison, Bob Cunningham, and Becky Rumburg, arrange and identify pictures.

Sharing the "Sport 'n' Life" office are editors Calvin Ridenhour, Boys' Sports, Claudette Harloe, Student Life, and Sandra Hoffmeyer, Girls' Sports.

Sr. Y-teens Officers, Treas. Brenda Gillispie, Pres. Lillian McGarity, V.P. Lois Glasgow, and Sec. Jane Carey, wrap Christmas presents for the Crittenton Home. Each year, the girls give presents to the unwed mothers.

Y-teens assist in Memorial Hospital escort service

Sophomores Y-teens, organized at Christmas, elected their officers during the first meeting: Pres. Carolyn Nodell, V.P. Sallie Daniels, Sec. Kathie Harkey, and Treas. Eloise DuBose. The members collected toys and gave them to the Marine Corps for distribution at Christmas; This was followed by two films and a panel discussion by the Jr. and Sr. Y-teens on how to study for two hour exams.

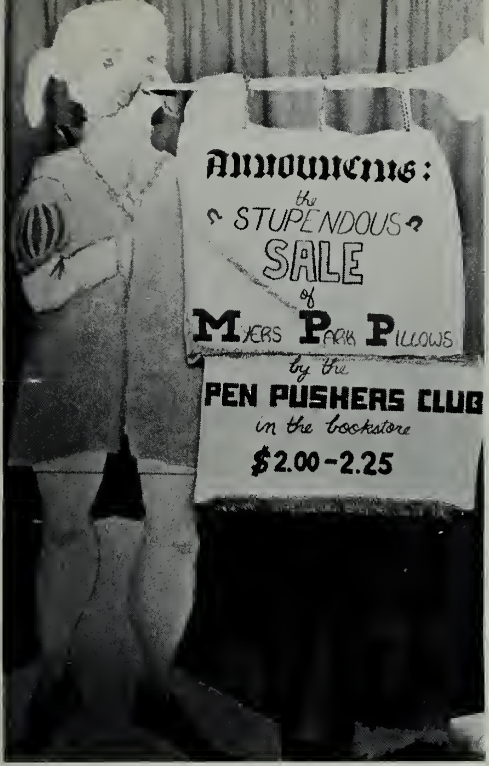
At their first meeting, the Jr. Y-teens elected Pres. Susan Sanders, V.P. Ann Williams, Sec. Lucile Campbell, and Treas. Mattie Gay Kissiah. The club balanced interesting programs with worthwhile projects. On a sunny Thursday afternoon, all Jr. Y-teens met in the LA parking lot to learn how to change tires. MP's exchange student from the Netherlands, Martine Hoek, spoke to the girls about her home country.

Helping to organize a new Sophomore Y-teens group, the Sr. Y-Teens gave a tea for all sophomores. Working closely with Y-Teens co-ordinator Mrs. Campbell, the Sr. Y-teens completed many projects and activities this year. At Christmas, the girls wrapped presents for the Crittenton Home and made place cards for hospital food trays. During the year, the Y-Teens helped with Memorial Hospital's church escort service.

"This is a jack, it goes under the car to raise the wheel," says Lee Dukes, the lucky one chosen to show the Jr. Y-teens how to change a tire. With this information, a Jr. Y-teen will be able to change a tire if she should ever be stranded without manpower.

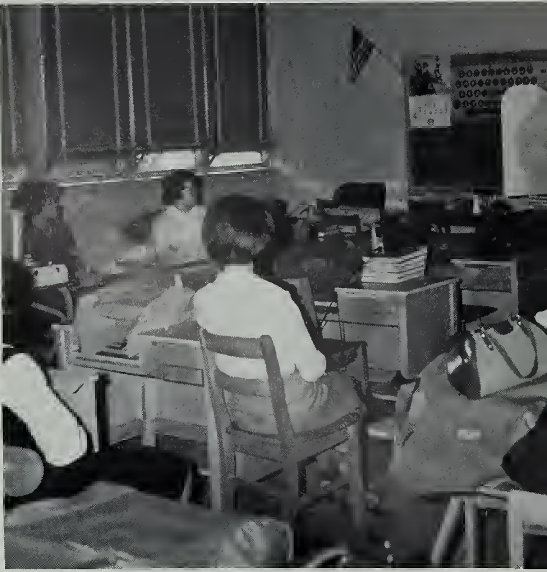
Mrs. Elliot opens the door for Sophomore Y-teens who are bringing toys for needy families at Christmas.

Pen Pushers sell MP souvenirs



SC-showcase becomes an advertising window for the Pen Pushers. The members sold MP pillows as a club project.

Girls interested in the principles and fundamentals of business are eligible to join the Myers Park Pen Pushers Club. This year, the Pen Pushers filled 10 bushel baskets with fruit which they took to the Rescue Mission for distribution. Members were asked to bring fruit to the designated meeting and there they carefully arranged it in the baskets. To increase the club's funds, the members sold MP pillows in the school bookstore. Profits from selling these pillows went into the club's treasury to be used for buying supplies and refreshments for the meetings. The Pen Pushers had the unique experience of listening to a MP graduate, Mrs. Ann Bryant, Personnel Director at First Union National Bank, speak on her experiences.



A representative from Avon speaks to the February 11th meeting of the Pen Pushers. Make-up and complexion care were discussed.

Great Books members discuss prominent Western World series

Meeting in members' homes, the Great Books Club repeated another year full of benefiting discussion of the World's great literature. Members are assigned two weeks to read a certain book and then they meet to discuss each book's meaning, universality and application to modern life. Such Classics as Lucretius' On the Nature of the Universe and Descartes' Origin of Inequality were discussed this year. Dr. Beilder, Queens College professor of Philosophy and Eastern Culture, spoke to the Great Books members on the Bhagavad-Gita. Susan Whisnant had the post of discussion leader; it was her job to throw in questions when the group had lost the thread of discussion.

Dr. Beilder leads a Great Books discussion on Indian literature following his interesting talk. The meeting, held January 28th at Queens College, had World Lit teacher, Mrs. Long and previous MP students as unexpected guests.

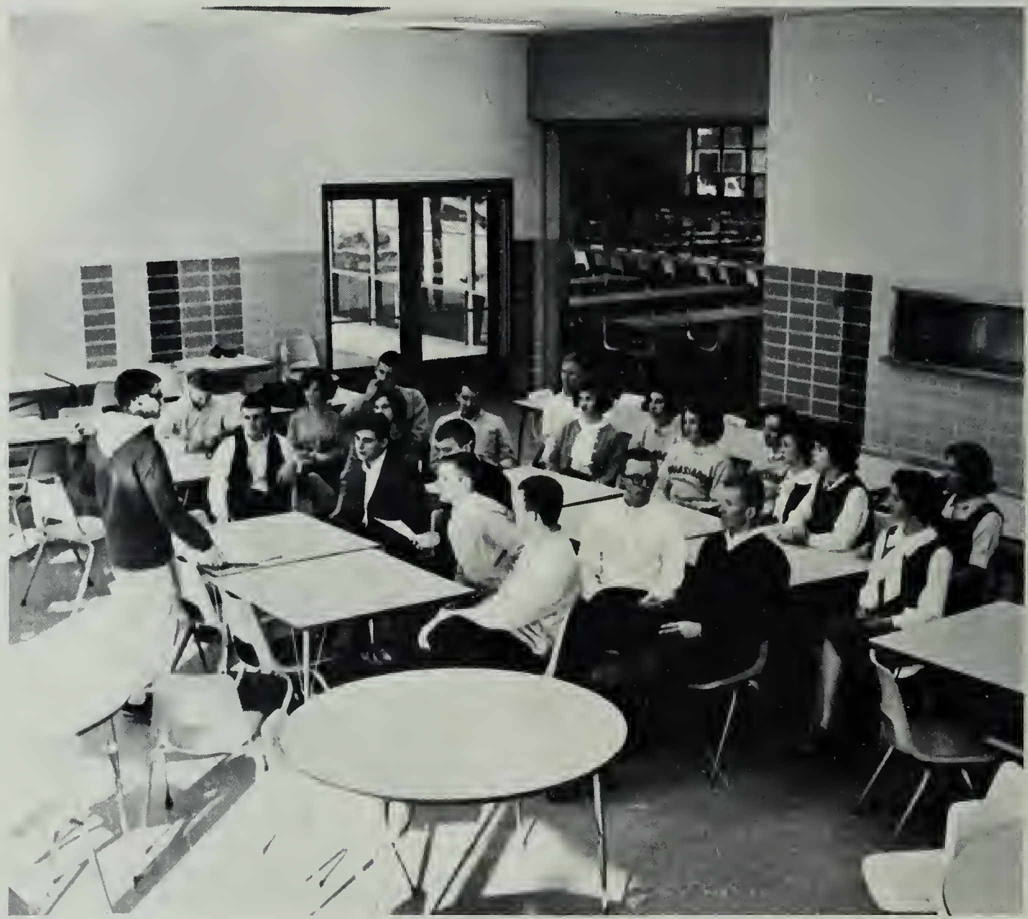
Always serving MP, the Student

Because it represents the entire student body, the student council is able to keep all students informed on policies and issues under discussion. The council is made up of representatives from each homeroom, class officers, and committee chairmen. Serving as student council committee chairmen are: Assembly, Al Allison and Skipper Blythe; Athletic, Chuck Edwards, Greg McClure, and Andy Phillips; Citizenship, Steve Hope and Dave Cannon; Dance, Jody Muilenburg and Paul Harcharik; Elections, Jane Wood; Foreign Exchange, Sunny Beam and Tracy Whittaker; Hall of Fame, Blair Josephs; Handbook-Scrapbook, Pam Hawkins and Gina Lobdell; House and Grounds, Dick Babcock and Walter Scholtz; Public Relations, Jackie Frost and Ellen Law; Publicity, Linda Kee and B. B. Jones; School Spirit, Lindsay Wheatley and John Alexander; Student Opinions, Gay Gunter; Welcoming, Sharon Baker and Lee Dukes.

Many student council projects this year have centered around building unity within our student body and closer relationships with other schools. The Public Relations committee sponsored several open houses after home basketball games and a tea for members of other student councils. A tea for sophomores and other new students was given by the Welcoming Committee, and for exchange students by the Foreign Exchange committee to acquaint the students with one another. Through the Dance Committee, the student council sponsored Homecoming, Christmas, Valentine, and the Sadie Hawkins dances. A special emphasis upon the importance of honor was designated by the Honor Corps during Citizenship Week. By these and other accomplishments the student council continues to serve Myers Park.

Tracy Whittaker, Becky Rumburg, Linda Kee, and Ellen Law stack Christmas cards to be sold by the Foreign Exchange Committee.

All presidents of clubs and organizations are members of the Inter-club Council. Established to advise and to keep each club informed on important issues, the council is led by the Vice President of the student council. Bob Crane meets with members in the cafeteria.



Council yields a productive year

Future Homemakers members, Sandy Sparks, Diana Hodges, Barbara Anders, and Cherie Austin plan their Mother-Daughter banquet.

Known as the FHA, the Future Homemakers of America strive to train members in the art of homemaking. The central theme for this year's projects was citizenship. A special program arranged by Sandy Sparks, program chairman for the club, was a speech by a worker from the Welfare Department. As a Christmas project, club members helped a very large needy family. Assigned to each child were a number of girls who supplied clothes and toys for him. The club as a whole gave food and Christmas tree to the family to help bring into their home the joy of Christmas. Their second project was a spring Mother-Daughter banquet held on April 1. In addition to these projects, the Future Homemakers sent delegates to the city district convention and state rallies.

FTA gives teachers a tea during semester break

Those students interested in a teaching career find assisting a particular teacher for the year one of the best ways of getting to know a few of the duties of a teacher and excellent opportunity to prepare for their future professions. This program of teacher assistance is available to all members of the Future Teachers of America.

During the semester break the FTA Club presented the teachers with a tea in order to relieve the monotony of grading exams. The club centered their efforts around National Education Week. The Myers Park division of the Future Teachers was proud of sponsoring Mary Alice Steele, who served as FTA County Treasurer.

FTA members give the teachers a pleasant break during the busiest time of the semester: the day after exams and the day before grades come out. The members supplied the refreshments for the tea, held in the library the morning of January 22.

FTA Officers: Treas. Laur Stayer, Sec. Julia Graham, V.P. Libby Soldati, and Pres. Peggy Barnes.

Hi-Y completes many projects to improve MP

Before the East-Myers Park football game, the Senior Hi-Y decorated M building's hall with green and white crepe paper, creating spirit and enthusiasm for the game. Myers Park's Hi-Y won the city basketball title, winning over all Sr. Hi-Y's in Charlotte. In early March, the club posted a chart in the new cafeteria showing the results of the State Basketball Tournament. Later in the spring, the Sr. Hi-Y made and erected a "Hunter-Huss" sign to be placed with the other school signs in the gym.

This year, the Junior Hi-Y cleaned SC's halls after school sponsored events, such as football and basketball games. A complete Christmas dinner, prepared by the S&W cafeteria, was given to a needy family. This year's Jr. Hi-Y officers are Pres. Johnny Elliot, Sec. Gillie Spratt, Treas. Tommy Bultz, Sergeant at Arms Skip Blythe, and Chaplain Larry Lewis.

The new Sophomore Hi-Y organized second semester. The boys, picked by the Jr. and Sr. Hi-Y's, created the new Hi-Y. Each year ten additional members are eligible to join the Hi-Y.

Senior Hi-Y members Jimmy Uhl, Mike Catanese, Chuck Edwards, Peter Heidler, Harry DeMik, and Edward Hunter, decorate M building with green and white crepe paper before the East-Myers Park football game. The club also decorated the halls before several basketball games.

'Spark staffers

News editor, Julie Leland, meets after school with the minor staff members to assign copy for the upcoming issue of the 'SPARK. The newspaper is dependent upon these staffers for writing copy, selling ads, and helping the major staff in general.

write copy, fit paste-ups, sell ads, meet deadlines

Counting out 'SPARKS just before homeroom distribution, Sandra Wallace retreats to one of the few uncrowded spots.

Myerspark, the campus newspaper, reflects the activities of the past, present, and future to the student body. Not only is the paper a source of information, but it also provides entertainment. Summer hours were spent preparing for the first 'Spark distribution on September 4. Students immediately felt like they were back into the swing of things. Since then, eleven other editions have come to brighten up the day for Myers Parkers. During the three weeks of preparation before the deadline every month, staffers were busy seeking topics of interest and covering current issues. Writing copy, taking pictures, typing columns, and arranging paste-ups for the printers were the major past-times of the staff.

Myers Park's three exchange students were introduced in the first edition. Since 1964 was a presidential election year, the newspaper gave a complete coverage of the national candidates. A special edition was produced in the spring listing the candidates and their qualifications for student council offices. Christmas time the 'Spark was a bundle of holiday features and countless greetings expressed by each Homeroom. Gallon jars were set up for casting penny votes for the Li'l, Abner and Daisy Mae contest which was sponsored by the staff during Sadie Hawkins week. Completing their high school days, seniors were featured in the final edition along with class superlatives, the prophecy, class poem, and the last will and testament.

'SPARK editors, Susan Marney and Janis Johnson, refer to the calendar before making definite decisions for the future.

A Capella Choir receives highest rating in contest

As a group the Myers Park choir has taken an active part in school life and has aided the community in different ways. The uniform effort that has been put into each performance results from the loyalty on the part of each member, for the choir itself contains a spirit like that displayed by fans at a football game. Working towards developing a sense of value in music, the choir has given many programs throughout the year. For example, the MP choir performed for the state music teachers in Greensboro. A concert given by the choir and orchestra featured selections from Christmas music and parts of the Messiah. The student body gathered in the auditorium for the religious program of Handel's Messiah, a traditional assembly at Myers Park. During the Christmas season the choir gave numerous performances at shopping centers and downtown department stores. For the sixth year in a row Myers Park's choir received a superior rating at the State Choir contest. One of the seven schools out of thirty to receive this award, the choir has won honors for the school and has established its position as being one of the finest organizations on campus.

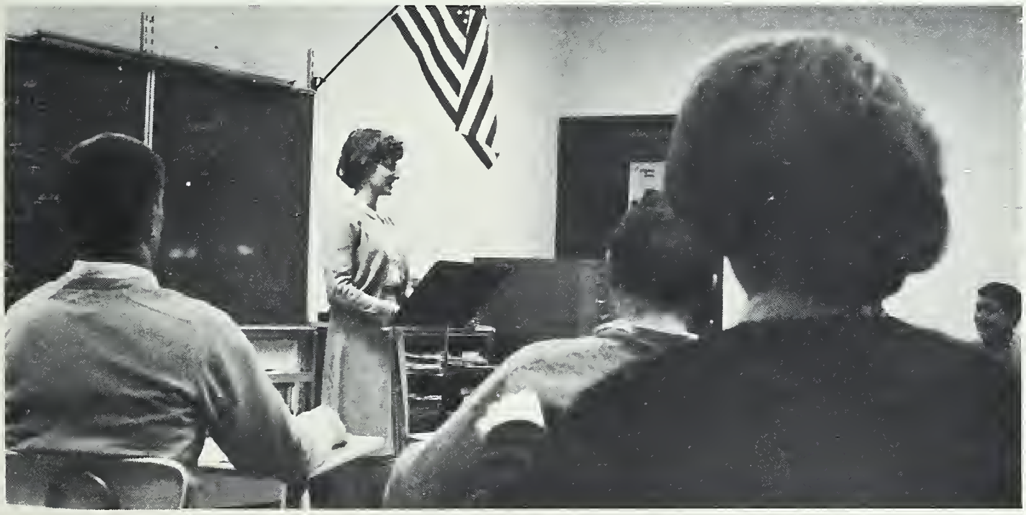
Forensic League organized for speech and debate

Speech Club president, Edward Hunter, welcomes the guests at a meeting of the Forensic League. At this meeting students from South joined Myers Park's members for a series of speeches and humorous entertainment. Held at the Charlottetown Mall's S&W Cafeteria, the speech club members enjoy a delicious dinner before proceeding with the program.



For Mrs. Potter's fourth period public speaking class, Tracy Whittaker, gives her speech for the World Peace Federation contest. Students who take public speaking have learned to overcome their fear of public oratory.

A nation-wide organization which recognized the talents and abilities of students who excel in public speaking, debating, interpretive readings, and oratory, is the National Forensic League. Many prominent leaders throughout the country are members of the NFL. This year Myers Park, in an attempt to promote public speech and debate, has formed the Myers Park chapter of the NFL. Students may gain membership by earning a set number of points through giving speeches, debating, and entering various contests.

Everyone who is eager to express himself in public speaking is given the opportunity to join the Speech Club. The club sponsors contests such as the Barclay Forum at Emory University, the Wake Forest Tournament, and Voice of Democracy Contest in which Janis Johnson won first place in the county. Tracy Whittaker, the winner of the World Peace Federation Contest, received a gold metal in addition to a free trip to New York and the United Nations.

Interesting speakers have been featured at many of the programs. The highlight of the year was International Night. At this dinner meeting of the Speech Club, speakers were the foreign exchange students and Myers Park students who traveled abroad this summer.

National Honor Society includes top 15 per cent of Senior Class

The National Honor Society is an organization of students that have maintained a high scholastic average in their school subjects. There are two inductions each year. The first in October is for seniors in the top ten per cent of their class, and the second in spring includes the top five per cent of the juniors and the top fifteen per cent of the seniors. After each induction, a banquet is held in the cafeteria. Again this year, the Honor Society offered a tutoring service, charging one dollar per hour. The members also compiled information of scholarships available to Myers Park Students. This information was distributed to all seniors in January to acquaint them with the various grants offered by colleges. The NHS strives to create an enthusiasm for scholarship and to encourage the development of Character.

COACH

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

EDUCATOR

FRIEND OF YOUTH

Porter Sheppard came to Myers Park in October, 1951, to lend his many years of experience to the newly organized school. For the next thirteen years his influence on the total school program—academic as well as athletic—won for him a measure of respect and admiration which can never be truly assessed. In so many ways Mr. Sheppard represented the real goal of athletics and of life: joy of participation, pride in accomplishment, dignity and courage in adversity.

Senior Mustangs Jerry Burley (72), Tom Kantsios (74), Captain Greg McClure (55), and Van Smith (28) surround a Garinger back in a heart-breaking 6-0 loss to the Wildcats before over 11,000 spectators at Memorial Stadium.

Flanker Johnny Wilson (24) receives a pass from Rick Arrington. He caught a total of thirty-three passes during the season.

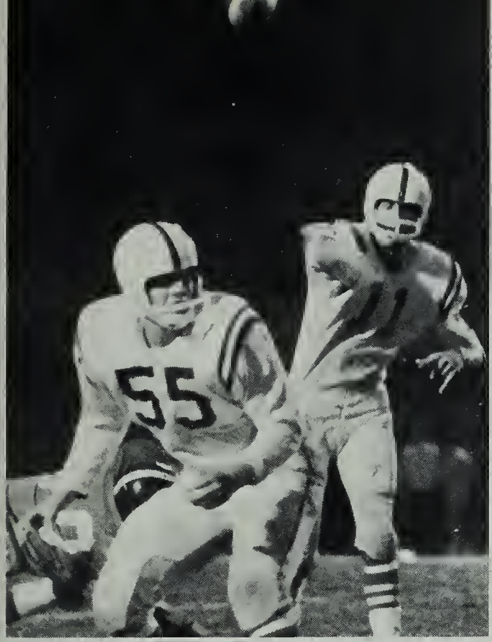
John Lunday (64), Tommy MacNeill (41), Marc Scott (63), and Greg McClure (55) smother an enemy ball carrier.

Disappointing

George Sould opened the season with a 93-yard touchdown kickoff return. Moments later, Edgar Timberlake scored from 8 yards after a fumble recovery. Their vaunted passing attack stalled, Myers Park was fortunate in preserving a tie with the Bulldogs. Led by Woodside, Lunday, Burley, and Tinsley, the revamped defense held Garinger. A let-up in the MP Secondary allowed a fourth quarter touchdown as the Mustangs lost 6-0.

George Soule (25) sprints away from Albemarle defenders enroute to 93 yard runback of the opening kickoff of the season.

As David Hamilton (62) dives for a Garinger back and Edgar Timberlake (32) comes up from the secondary, Outstanding Lineman John Lunday (64) halts the runner at the line of scrimmage.



Captain Greg McClure (55) provides protection as Rick Arrington (11) tosses one of 287 passes he attempted.

5-4-1 record posted by 1965 Mustang grid team

The Mustang Offense finally came alive in a 27-7 victory over North Forsyth. Arrington completed 22 of 43 passes for 261 yards. Arrington, completing 16 of the 29 passes for 248 yards and Billy Farthing were the only bright spots in Myers Park's 28-14 loss to South. The Homecoming game ended in a 21-14 triumph over Asheville. Arrington completed a 20 yard TD pass to Farthing with 12 seconds remaining. Numerous lapses in the MP secondary allowed Gastonia to score four first half touchdown passes. Arrington finished the night with 25 completions in 38 attempts as Gastonia won 39-19. Myers Park rebounded from its loss to Gastonia with a 19-13 victory over Harding. Captain Greg McClure returned from tackle to linebacker and sparked the defense with two pass interceptions and one fumble recovery. Myers Park beat East 14-12 on a 3-yard touchdown pass from Arrington to Woodside with 4 seconds remaining. To win the game, Arrington guided the Mustangs 86 yards in 1:10 behind the best protection of the year. Myers Park traveled to Rocky Mount hoping to upset the number one team in the state. However, the Mustang offense was limited to a paltry 76 yard total offense as Rocky Mount beat the Mustangs 26-7.

All-American quarterback Rick Arrington (11) rifles a pass downfield against North Forsyth behind the protection of George Soule (25), Chip Moon (31), Nick Fletcher (68), Julian Cockerham (50), and Jerry Burley (72).

Poised and ready to pass, junior quarterback Neb Hayden (10) looks downfield for an open receiver.

Arrington saved a great game for his finale, throwing five touchdown passes, as Myers Park trounced West 41-14. Neb Hayden showed promise for the next season by completing 6 of 12 passes for 110 yards and one TD.

Billed as the champion in pre-season ratings, Myers Park ended the season with a 5-4-1 record. Rick Arrington was the bright spot during a bleak season for the Mustangs. He ended his career as the most successful quarterback in the school's history with 234 completions in 461 attempts and 39 touchdowns. Arrington accumulated many post-season honors including All-State, All-Southern, All-American, and N.C. Shrine Bowl captain.

Excitement and disappointment describe the record of the 1965 Mustangs. There was the excitement of a long pass by Arrington, of a kick-off return for a touchdown, and of a last second touchdown handing Myers Park a victory. But over all the excitement hung the disappointment of a team which had the potential of a champion. The disappointing season netted one significant example for future grid teams. Spirit, unity, and teamwork are vital in a championship team. The Mustangs had the potential of a champion but lacked these necessary characteristics.

David Stanley (84) struggles for extra yardage against Harding with one of thirty-two passes he caught during the season.

Billy Farthing (85) dives in vain for a pass against North Forsyth. He missed few passes as he caught twenty-eight for the year.

Colts complete season with successful 7-2 mark

Led by a sturdy defense which held five opponents scoreless and a potent offense which totaled 147 points, the Myers Park junior varsity football team completed another winning season with a won 7 lost 2 record. The JV team showed tremendous potential with many hard-nosed linemen and numerous hard running backs. The success of the junior varsity may be attributed to a balanced attack, with an explosive running game as well as a strong aerial attack.

The Colts started their season with a 13-0 win over West as Johnny Elliot and John Cisne tallied touchdowns. This victory was followed by a 21-0 win over Hunter Huss as Myers Park scored in each of the first three quarters. The jayvees were no match for their Garinger counterparts as they absorbed their first loss of the season, 18-0. The jayvees avenged their loss to Garinger, beating the Wildkittens' "B" team 27-0, with Mike Todd scoring two touchdowns. John Cisne and Randy Short also scored in this game. South's jayvees were next to fall, as the Colts continued their winning way, 21-0. Ashley of Gastonia dealt the JV Mustangs their second loss of the season 12-0.

Displaying the potential of becoming another outstanding Mustang quarterback, Randy Short (25) fires an aerial in a JV game.

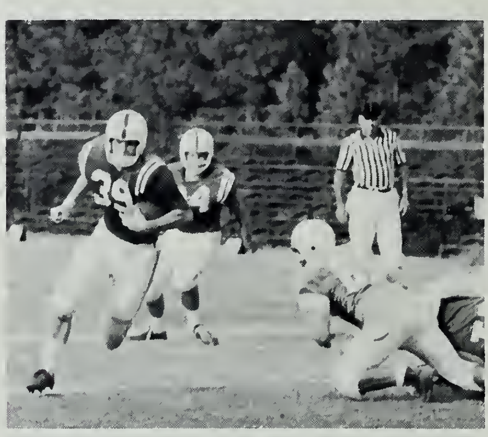
A 27-0 romp over East was next, as Todd scored three times, twice on 70-yard runs. Richard Wilson intercepted a pass and returned it 37 yards for the other score. The Colts ended the campaign with a 13-7 victory over North. Mike Todd caught two second half touchdown passes from Randy Short.

After taking a hand-off from Lynn Greeley (24), Bill Sims (39) finds a huge hole in the defensive wall.



Junior Tommy Butz (62) stops a Garinger back at the line of scrimmage. His defensive efforts played a key role in the JV defense.

Harriers cop Western 4-A title

After copping third place at West and second to East in a quadrangular meet at Freedom Park, the Harriers captured their first season victory over Harding. Mike Smith and Jeff West finished first and second as Myers Park downed North and West at North. Against East, West, and Catholic, the Harriers placed first.

The Mustangs stomped Garinger with Smith and Jeff West running first and second. Led by Jeff West, they eeked out a 27-28 win over the Davidson frosh. The team placed second in the Wake Forest Invitational. Mike Smith finished first in the Western 4-A Conference meet, as the team captured the championship. They placed third in the state meet at Chapel Hill.

Star runner Mike Smith leads Catholic runner in a meet at East Mecklenburg. He led the Mustangs to victory in many meets and placed second in the state.

Spirit, hustle, and teamwork

Spirit, hustle, and teamwork netted the 1965 Mustang cagers the most impressive record in the history of Myers Park. The Mustangs compiled a 22-2 record and won both the regular season title and the Western 4-A Conference Tournament championship. The highly successful season exemplified the determination of a dedicated coach, Jim Hartman, and a dedicated group of athletes. Although the squad was not a favorite in the pre-season ratings, it proved that spirit, hustle, teamwork, and a winning attitude produce champions.

The cagers opened the 1965 campaign with a home and home series with High Point. Myers Park tripped the Bisons twice, 47-45 at home and 54-52 in High Point. The Mustangs then thwarted South's upset hopes 48-47 on a tap rebound by Chuck Edwards. Gastonia handed the cagers their only regular season loss 57-49. A series of fouls handed Gastonia the victory in the final 30 seconds. Myers Park began a 19-game win streak with a 62-54 victory over North. Bill Schworm hit 16 points and led the Mustangs to control of the boards.

carry Mustangs to 22-2 season

Paced by Edwards with 33 points, the Mustangs downed Garinger 76-74 despite a furious comeback attempt by the Wildcats. Myers Park ran up its season-high score in defeating Hunter Huss 92-51. John Miller scored 21 points as eleven Mustang cagers scored. The Musstangs hung a 61-59 defeat on Asheville as all starters hit in double figures. Hitting 11 of 13 shots from the floor in the third period, the cagers stomped Harding 78-42. With Edwards scoring 26 points and claiming 23 rebounds, the Mustangs out classed West 72-61.

Myers Park then faced its biggest challenge of the season. The Mustangs eeked by pre-season favorite East Mecklenburg 52-51 in the loser's gym. Hustle and desire carried the team in the all-important game. The Mustangs followed their victory over East with a 69-58 trouncing of Garinger. Andy Harris led Myers Park with numerous steals and 18 points. After defeating South 46-42 behind the rebounding of Schworm, Myers Park gained revenge over Gastonia 61-50 in what Coach Hartman termed "our best game ever."

Quarterback of the Mustang offense, Cecil Hawes (22), eyes the defensive set-up in a Western 4-A Conference Tournament game.

Chuck Edwards (44), leading scorer and rebounder for the Mustangs, pulls down a rebound against South as Andy Harris (12), Bill Schworm (34), and Herb Long (40) box out the opposition.

Mustang cagers claim Western 4-A championships

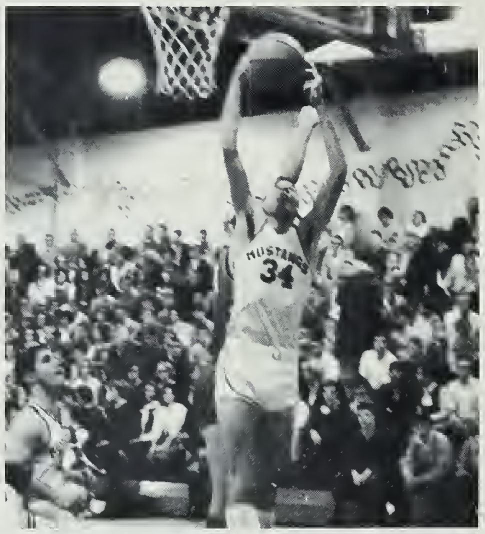
Bill McIntyre (45) goes up in the midst of South opponents to lay in two points for the MP "B" team.

Myers Park followed the Gastonia win with a 63-43 victory over North. Hunter Huss fell next to the cagers by a 70-44 count. Edwards scored 33 points and carried the Mustangs past Asheville 63-50. Harding fell to Myers Park 61-47 as the Mustangs toned their offense for their meeting with East. With Edwards, Miller, and Long dominating the boards, the Mustangs captured the Western 4-A title by tripping East 64-59. Led by Miller with 24 points, the Mustangs beat West 80-45 as they finished the regular season with 16 straight wins and 19-1 overall record.

In the opening game of the conference tournament, the Mustangs humbled Harding 63-43. Myers Park gained the tournament finals by defeating South 56-51 behind 15 points by Schworm. Edwards paced the Mustangs to the title, 57-53, as East fell to Myers Park for the third time this season. At the state tournament they had their championship hopes shattered 43-40 by Rocky Mount. Although there was the disappointment at the state tournament, there will always be the Mustang pride in the team that posted the best record in the history of Myers Park.

Ernest Dwight (33), a member of the "B" team which afforded promising juniors a chance to improve, out-rebounds an opponent.

Bill Schworm (34) claims a rebound against South. His rebounding and offensive ability aided the Mustangs to a 22-2 season.



Bill Schworm (34) fires a leaping jump-shot over a Wildcat defender as the Mustangs beat Garinger 76-74 in our gym.

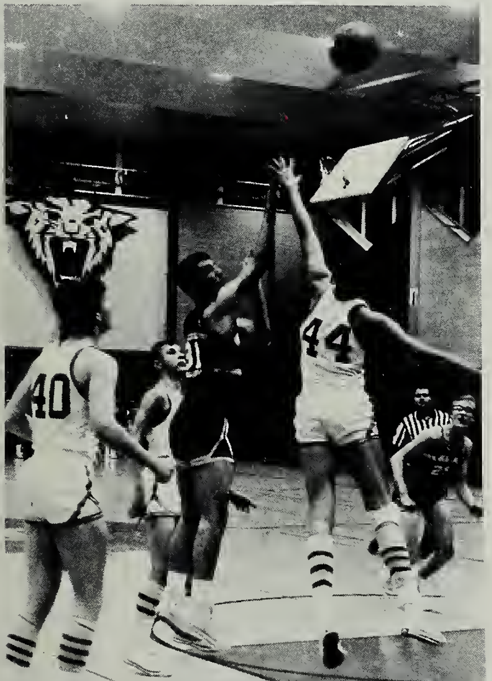
Balance and depth pace Ponies to 20-1 season

Balance and depth were the forte of the 1965 Junior Varsity Basketball team. Scoring balance, led by John Needy with a 12 point average, enabled the team to post a 20-1 season record. Three deep in almost every position, the JV's averaged 61 points per game while limiting their opponents to 45 points. Hitting on 43% of its field goal attempts, the team was one of the best in Myers Park's history as it followed the varsity pattern of hustle and spirit.

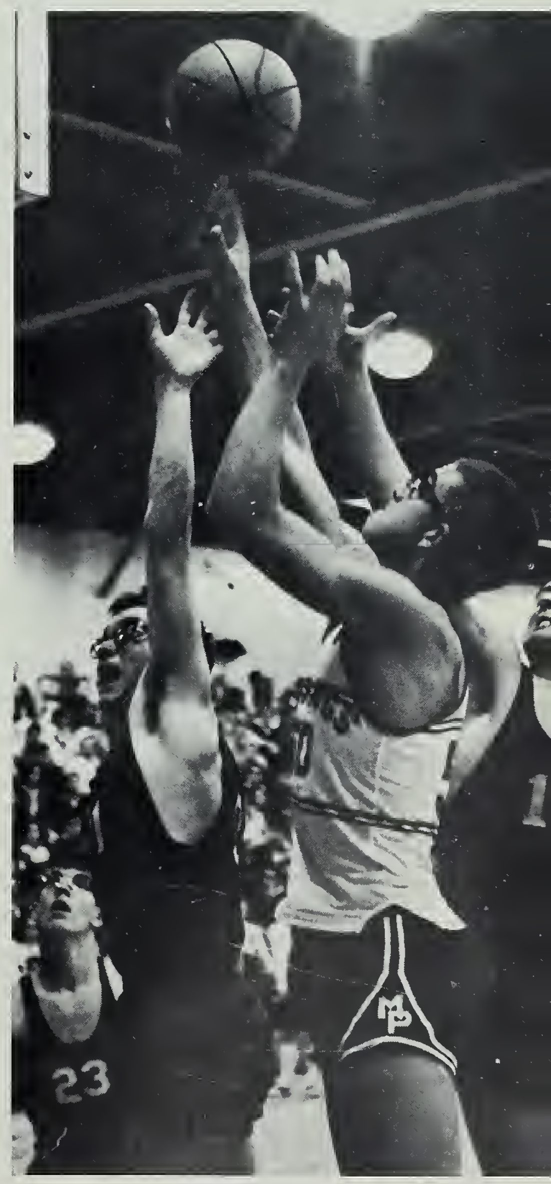
After successive victories over the MP "B" team, High Point, and North, the Mustangs pinned a 48-36 loss on South with John Needy scoring 20 points. Stanley Bane hit 17 and Bob Haubenreiser 13 as the Ponies downed Gastonia 58-50. Craig Remwick, with 23 points, led the JV's to a 63-53 victory over Garinger. The Colts' next encounter was a 76-43 runaway over Harding. Spirit, hustle, and defense played vital roles in the JV Mustangs' 49-47 squeaker over West.

Carrying a 9-point average, Bob Haubenreiser (31) shoots for the bucket in the Ponies' 60-58 squeaker over the Garinger JV's.



Guard Eddie Poe (20) heads downcourt at the beginning of a fast break. Team speed was a key factor in the Ponies' success.

John Needy (50) shoots from in close over two Gastonia players. His 12-point average led the JV Mustangs to a 20-1 season.



Fast-breaking Eddie Poe (20) outdistances a Gastonia opponent as he lays in an easy two points for the Ponies.

The success of a team depends partly upon its strength under the boards. Leading rebounder Bob Haubenreiser (44) claims a stray shot in a JV game against South as Angus McDonald (42), Eddie Poe (20), and John Needy (50) break for the board.

JV's suffer tournament setback

The Myers Park Ponies then raced to a 69-46 trouncing of East. John Needy scored 27 points and paced the Mustangs to a 60-58 close-call victory over Garinger. South and Ashley were the next victims by scores of 65-52 and 57-39 respectively. The Ponies posted their season high against North in a 84-64 stomping of the JV Rebels as Needy hit 26 points. After bombing Hunter Huss 66-37, the JV's recorded a 64-48 victory over Asheville. Travelling to Harding, the Ponies posted a 65-45 victory. East fell next 52-44 in the Mustang gym. West again gave the Ponies a close game but fell to the Colts 41-39. In the conference tournament, the Ponies raced to a 67-51 victory over Harding behind John Needy's 16 points. The JV's then saw the dream of an undefeated season shattered by South 45-44 in the tournament finals. Even tougher than defeat was the manner in which it came. The team had to watch helplessly from the sidelines as a Sabre player sank two free throws after the game was over.

Spencer captures individual state championship

Employing a half nelson pinning combination, senior Mike Catanese forces an opponent to the mat enroute to an easy victory. Improving steadily during the season, he placed third in the district tournament and second in the state in the 127-pound class.

Compiling a 9-2 regular season record, the Mustang matmen, coached by Bill Cordell and Jacques Macy, proved themselves one of the top wrestling teams in the state. They copped the Western 4-A championship and finished second to Boone in both District and State Tournaments.

Team balance was the key to the success of the 1965 wrestling team. Alan Roberts and Charles Serrell, the only two sophomores on the team, manned the 95-pound and 103-pound classes respectively. Bob Crane, a three-year veteran who placed second in the state, posted a 15-1 record in the 112 class. Undefeated in the regular season, senior Rusty Russell led the 120-pound class. Mike Catanese headed the 127 class and finished second in the state. Jimmy Uhl led the 133-pound class, followed by Edward Hunter in the 138 and Tom Krueger in the 145. Peter Thompson, one of the two juniors on the squad, compiled a 16-3 record in the 154 and placed third in the state. Steve Huntley led the 165, followed by David Spencer in the 180-pound class. Scoring 83 points and pinning all but one opponent during the entire season, David was undefeated and copped an individual state championship. Rusty Therrell led the 197-pound class, while Errol Genois, a junior, wrestled in the unlimited class.

Bob Crane attempts a sit-out against a Hunter Huss wrestler. Quick reactions and natural instinct carried him to a 15-1 record.

With coaches Bill Cordell and Jacques Macy looking tensely on, David Spencer uses a half nelson to pin a North opponent. Spencer pinned 16 of 17 opponents through-out the season and was awarded the Sandiford Award as the outstanding wrestler.

Matmen grapple to Western 4-A

After opening the season with a 35-22 win over South, the matmen defeated Harding as they copped 9 of 13 matches. North became the third victim by a score of 40-13. In a return match against Harding, Myers Park again trounced the Rams 37-15. The Mustangs recorded 8 pins in 13 matches and swamped Garinger 53-7. In a 52-2 massacre of West, the matmen almost shut out the Indians except for a draw in the 197 class. Myers Park beat Country Day 36-18 as David Spencer, Peter Thompson, and Mike Catanese pinned their opponents in the first period. The team then pinned another loss on South 33-16. In the following match, Myers Park lost 26-25 to Hunter Huss for one of the two blotches on the regular season ledger. Boone handed the MP wrestling team its second defeat 33-15. In the final meet, Myers Park pinned East 46-10.

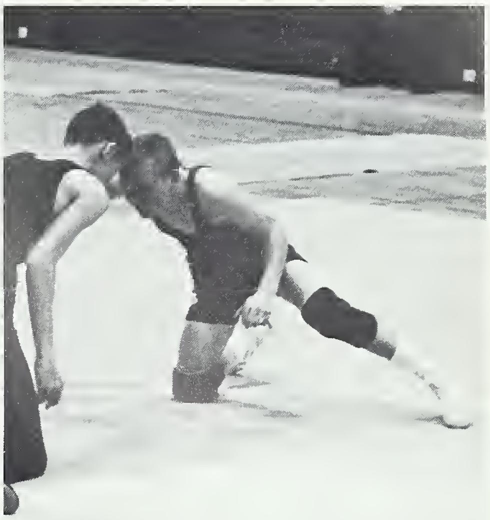
Using a half nelson pinning combination, senior Rusty Russell pins a Garinger man to the mat. Wrestling for his third year as a letterman, Russell won all of his matches during the regular season.



Preparing for a takedown, sophomore Alan Roberts studies a Hunter Huss opponent.

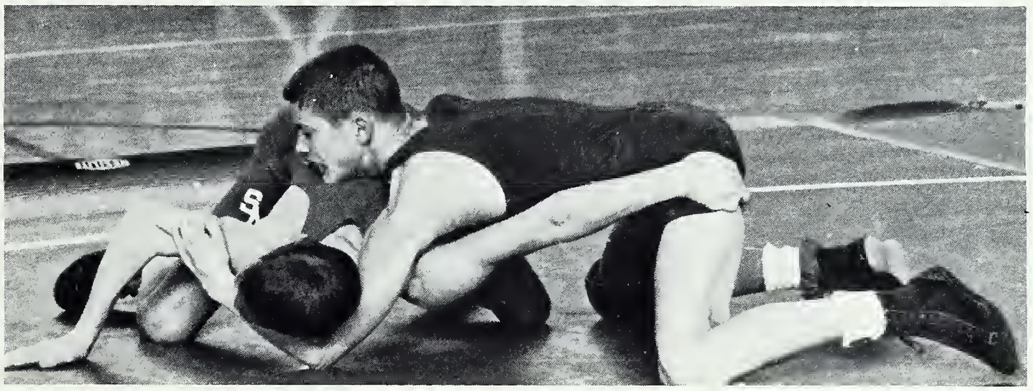
The MP matmen maintained an undefeated record against all city competition for the past three years, running the record to 26-0-1. In the District Tournament, the grapplers took second place behind Boone and placed 9 out of 13 wrestlers in the state tournament. The team also placed second in the state with Spencer winning a state championship. Crane missed winning an individual title on a 3-2 decision based on riding time.

Sophomore Charles Serrell employs a cross-face ride against a South grappler. Learning quickly, he improved steadily during the season and should help the Mustangs in the coming two years.



Placing first in the district tournament, David Spencer stands atop the number one perch after pinning all his opponents.

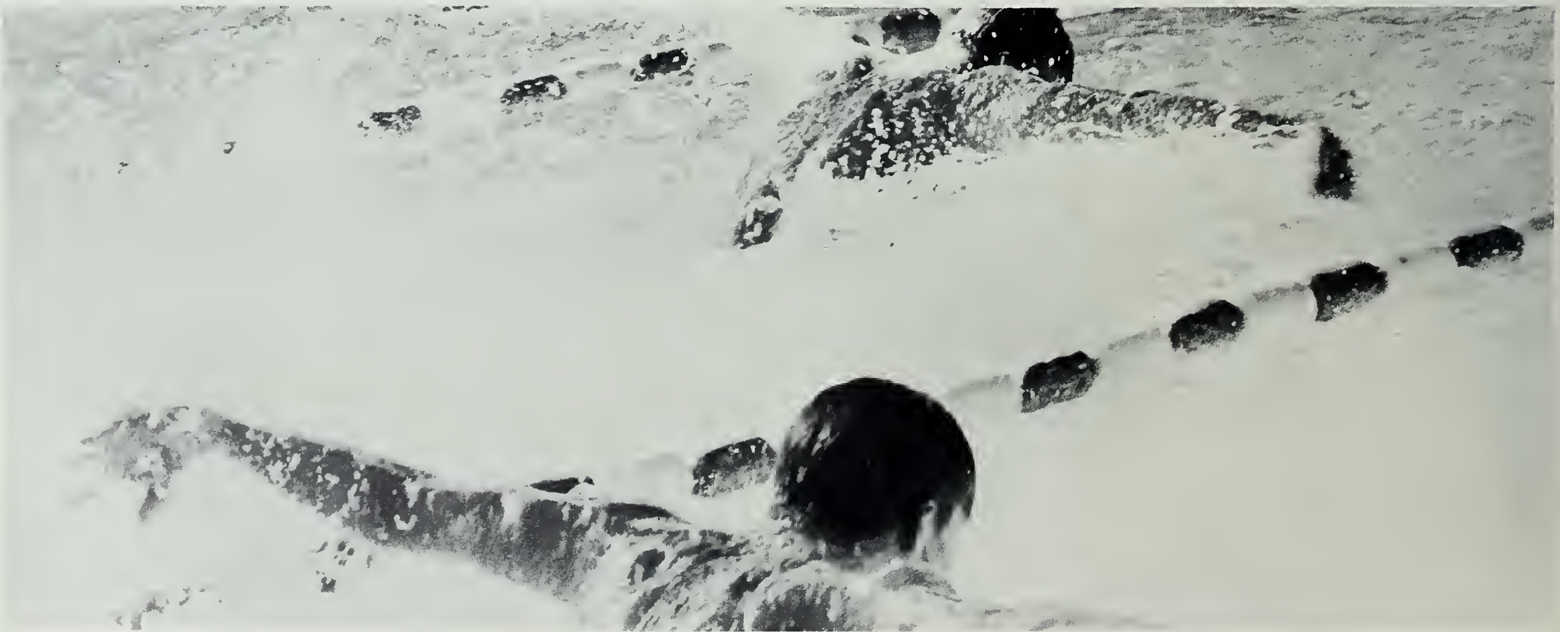
Swimming team

Juggling the lineup to match the opposing team's strengths, Coach Cloaninger discusses the individual assignments with the team, prior to a dual meet. Myers Park's dual meet success can be attributed to its ability to match and defeat its opponents in their strongest events.

Doug Baker, a valuable member of the freestyle relay team, leaves the starting block after a teammate touches the wall.

Pat Woodcock, Mustang breaststroker, leads an opponent in the final lap of the 200-yard medley relay.

Paced by Gary Canady and Bill Kemp, the butterfly was one of the strongest events for the Mustang mermen. Senior Canady broke the school record he set in his junior year, recording a time of 57.6 in the 100-yard fly.



finishes victorious season, places 2nd in state

Backstroker Phil Van Hoy churns through the water as he captures second place in an early season meet against East.

Coached by Bill Cloaninger, Myers Park once again fielded an exceptionally talented swimming team with the depth so necessary in dual competition. The mermen on this year's team were headed by swimmers Alan Speir, who posted a 23.1 in the 50-yard freestyle; co-captain Bruce Beiderbeck in the 100-yard free; Randy Wade, who set state high school records of 1:50.6 in the 200-yard free and 4:00.2 in the 400-yard free and was a likely All-American candidate; co-captain Gary Canady, setting a new school record 57.6 in the 100-yard butterfly; Bob McGregor in the 100-yard backstroke; Pat Woodcock in the 100-yard breaststroke; and Doug Baker, who swam a 2:15.9 in the 200-yard individual medley in the state meet. Jimmy Marshall managed capably while scoring all home meets.

The relay teams gathered numerous extra points to add to the individual efforts exerted. The 200-yard medley relay team of Haene, Woodcock, Canady, and Seay came close to bettering the school record. Baker, Beiderbeck, Hunt, and Seay captured first in the state in the 200-yard freestyle relay. Myers Park's divers again added to the overall strength of the team with Jimmy Husband and Stuart White topping the list.

Jimmy Husband, the team's leading diver, practices a difficult dive in preparation for a future meet.

Determined junior Walter Scholtz dives into the water at the beginning of the 100-yard freestyle event.

Randy Wade and Doug Baker leave their starting blocks at the beginning of the 200-yard individual medley. Clocked at 2:15 in the state meet, Baker specialized in this event, while Wade dominated the 200 and 400-yard freestyle events.

Randy Wade sets 2 state records

The mermen with a 6-1 record in high school dual meet competition suffered its lone defeat at the hands of Greensboro Grimsley (58-37) after a series of 65 consecutive dual meet victories over a span of years. The team placed second in the East Carolina Invitational, Randy Wade winning the 200- and 400-yard freestyle events and the 200-yard freestyle relay team taking first place. The seahorses placed third at the Southern Interscholastic Swimming meet. Greensboro Grimley edged out the mermen in the finals of the state meet. Randy Wade, Alan Speir, Doug Baker, and the 200-yard freestyle relay team were the bright spots for the mermen at the championship meet.

Gary Canady, a top competitor in the 100-yard butterfly, swims laps to build endurance needed for meet competition.

Aiming for over 6 feet as an ultimate goal, high jumper John Miller checks the foam pit as he easily clears the bar.

Clearing 11 feet 9 inches, veteran Neal McKinnon soars over the bar in the pole vault to take first place honors. Striving to break the 12 foot mark, McKinnon and his brother John gave the Mustangs particular strength in this event.

Taking first place in a meet with Garinger, sophomore star Nick Karres explodes from his spin, hurling the discus 146 feet.

Field events surprisingly strong

With new-found strength in the field events to accompany the already strong running events, the Mustang track team began another successful season, having dominated state track and field events for the past decade. With a host of veterans and a crop of promising sophomores, the cindermen smashed all early season competition. Coached by Stuart Allen who has guided track fortunes since 1956, the well-balanced team looked forward to the big meets of the season: Duke-Durham Relays, Queen City Relays, Conference Meet, the Sectional Qualifying Meet, and decisive State Meet.

Led by Chuck Edwards and Neal McKinnon, the field was surprisingly strong. High jumper Edwards broke the 6-foot barrier in an early season meet with McKinnon and Dave Badger nearing that mark. McKinnon swept to early season victories in the vault as he survived to clear 12 feet. He was paced by his younger brother John, who placed first against Garinger. Two sophomores greatly strengthened field events. David Thrilkill developed rapidly in the broad jump, leaping over 20 feet, and Nick Karres provided new strength, putting the shot over 47 feet and hurling the discus 147.

Sophomore star David Thrailkill lands in the pit, capturing first place with a 20-foot plus performance. His fast development in the broad jump greatly strengthened the powerful Mustangs in the field events.

Adding depth to the field events, sophomore Larry Howe pauses before heaving the shot in a conference meet against Garinger.

Trackmen seek relay meet victories, 7th state

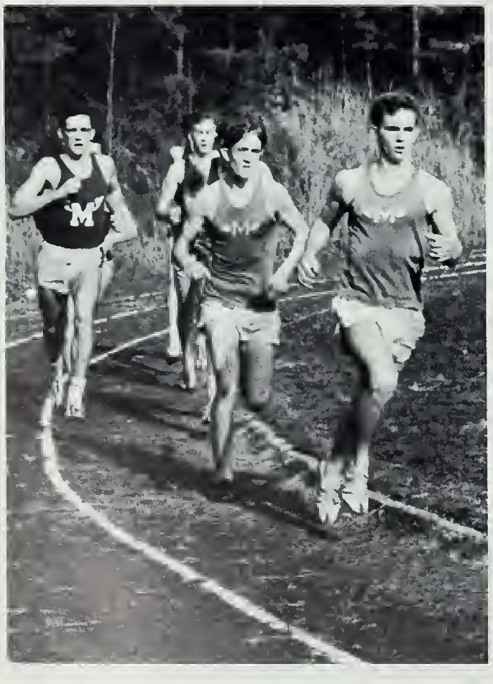
Dominating the half-mile, Jeff West, followed closely by Buddy Starnes, leads the field at the start of the gun lap.

Mustang domination of the running events continued with many returnees from last years state championship squad. Holding a state record of 9.9 in the 100, George Soule led the returnees. Tommy Carrier, Edgar Timberlake, and Soule provided the Mustangs with strength in the 220. Veteran Tommy MacNeill and Ted Nodell led the 440 men with times under 54.0. Registering a 2:01 clocking in the third meet, Jeff West stomped early competition in the 880. Mike Smith dominated the mile run with three early season victories.

The Mustangs looked particularly strong in the hurdles with Jeff Howser and Nodell running the highs and Fred McPhail and Howser in the 180 lows. The half mile relay team was one of the strongest in the state with a time of 1:32.7 in the third meet. The mile relay team began to develop after early season troubles. The cindermen were probably the strongest in the history of Myers Park. With particular strength in the sprints and relays, the Mustang cindermen looked forward to a shot at another state championship.

Jeff Howser races to the tape as Ted Nodell, Tom Brantley, and Neal McKinnon follow in a clean sweep for the Mustangs. Depth has always been a characteristic of the Mustang track teams and has carried the cindermen through many dual and relay meets.

Trailed by Bruce Beiderbecke and Mike Lyle, Mike Smith leads the mile in the back turn.



Fred McPhail and Jeff Howser outclass a Garinger opponent in the winning heat as they clear the last hurdle in the 180-yard lows and head for the tape.

Half-mile runners await the sound of the starting gun. To excel in this long, gruelling event takes excellent conditioning and many hours of dedicated practice.

State champion sprinter George Soule, who set a state record of 9.9 as a junior, churns to a victory over Garinger track- men in the 100-yard dash. Regaining his form of last year, Soule seemed well on his way to another individual state championship.

Stomping all city competition in the early season, miler Mike Smith breaks the tape with a 25-yard margin of victory.

Senior Edgar Timberlake captures his heat in the 100-yard dash by a 3-yard margin.

Golfers await Western 4-A championship matches

Mike Carney puts his entire body into a tee shot as he shoots a 73 and leads the team to a 19-17 triumph over the UNC Frosh.

Experience and depth were the key to the early season success. With all of the top 14 golfers capable of shooting in the 70's, the chance to advance individually was always present under Coach Hartman's system. The top six golfers were Ken Smith, Trip Maffitt, Mike Carney, Jack Gardner, Jock Tonnisen, and Joey Aiken. This group was pushed by Frank Bryant, Gillie Spratt, George Waterhouse, Richard Tinsley, David Hawkins, Gibby Daniel, Tom Horton, and Tom Yopp.

The golfers opened their tough schedule with a tri-school meet win over Garinger and Hunter Huss. Travelling to UNC, Myers Park lost to the Freshmen 21½-2½. Jack Gardner shot a 78 despite a steady downpour. In a return match at Myers Park Country Club, the team eeked out a 19-17 victory over the UNC Frosh as Mike Carney posted a 73. The Mustangs lost to South, their strongest Western 4-A competition, 5½-3½ in a 9-hole match at Cedarwood.

Led by Keith Faquin, Dick Babcock, newcomer Milton Haslam, Chip Moon in the singles, and Al Durham and Andy Phillips in the doubles, the tennis team swept to six easy early season victories. The hope of retaining the Western 4-A championship and winning the state title seemed well within reach as the top four singles and top doubles team held unblemished records.

Losing only 1 out of 36 singles matches, the team conquered its first six opponents. In the opener, MP thumped North 8-1 then stomped East 7-2 at Freedom Park. Harding fell 7-2 as the Mustangs romped to their third victory. At Garinger, the team white-washed the Cats 9-0. Elkin fell to the netmen 8-1 then they downed South 9-0 behind the play of Haslam, Faquin, Babcock, and Moon. The UNC frosh, the Sectional Tournament, and the State Tournament stood ahead as major targets for the netmen.

JV's feature all sophomore team

Myers Park again was able to field a JV baseball team, allowing sophomores a chance to play rather than sit out the entire season. Coached by Russell Clark, the JV's featured a strong hitting team and a tight defense. They opened their season with a 4-0 triumph over Garinger. Harry Chappell led the Ponies with 2 for 3 as Danny Wilson pitched a 4-hitter. Mike Phillips, Randy Short, Harry Chappell, and George Tate led the outstanding JV squad through their schedule.

Baseball team shows promise

Coached by Jack Sink, the baseball team featured the pitching of Rick Arrington and Herb Long. After a few misses, the infield of John Wilson, Calvin Ridenhour, and Billy Farthing settled down and formed a good unit. With Neb Hayden in centerfield, the outfield featured good speed and accurate arms. The team opened the season with a heartbreaking 1-0 loss to West despite Arrington's two-hit pitching. South, Garinger, and North knocked off the Mustangs in successive games. Behind the four-hit pitching of Long, they finally won, beating Hunter Huss 6-3.

Captain and catcher Larry Hood (19) and first baseman Rick Arrington (22) come in to talk with pitcher Herb Long (25) in the Mustang's 6-3 victory over Hunter Huss. Long pitched the entire game, allowing only 4 hits, and led the Mustang attack with 3 hits in 4 trips.

Intramurals develop sportsmanship and teamwork

Intramurals play a large part in the athletic life at Myers Park. This program, financed with funds raised by the PTA through the annual Barbecue, offers boys who did not participate in the regular athletic programs or who are good but did not excel in a particular sport a chance to develop their interests. The team sports allow the participants to practice good sportsmanship and teamwork. The boys may also enter individual sports such as wrestling. With Coach Lee as director, football, wrestling, basketball (fall and spring), volleyball, and soccer intramurals were coordinated.

Teams are organized by the students themselves with the only restrictions being that members must be in the same class and must not have participated in a varsity or jv team in that sport. The fall basketball intramurals were won by a sophomore team, The Whiz Kids, with The Toneys, a junior group, as runner up. The wrestling championships, divided into weight classes, were determined by double elimination. They were Mike Martin, Evan James, Rick Cassells, Mac MacGregor, Tommy MacNeill, David Martin, and Louie Nachman. The spring basketball tournament saw the Huskies, Pumpkin-doodles, and Waldorfs all very much in the running.

In the opening round of the intramural wrestling tournament, Louie Nachman pins Mike Upchurch in the first period.

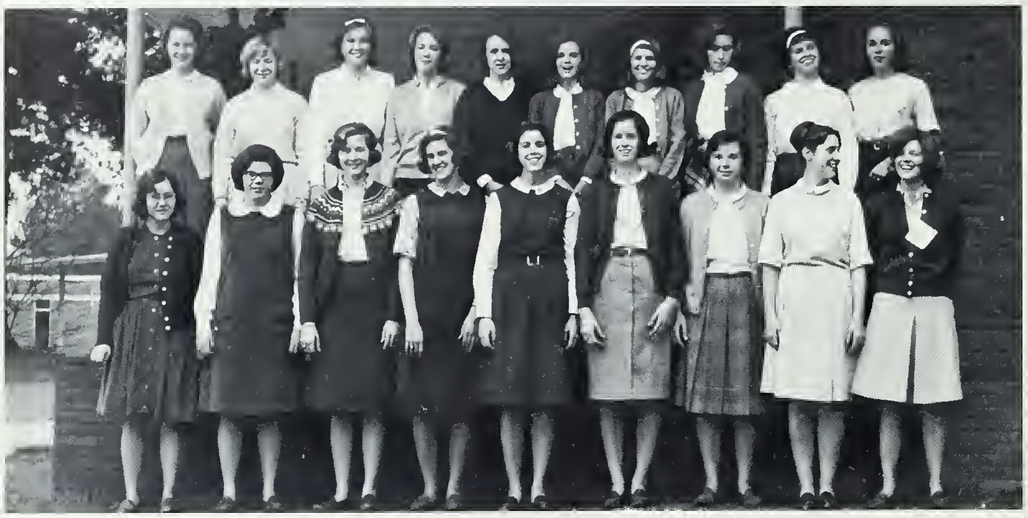
GIRLS' SPORTS

Carol Joye, 1964-65 archery champion, shows perfect form as she draws her bow and aims for the target.

Sophomores Louise Berkley and Susie Smith join forces in a doubles table tennis match during their physical education class. Table tennis is one of the many games in which MP girls may develop their skills through the physical education classes.

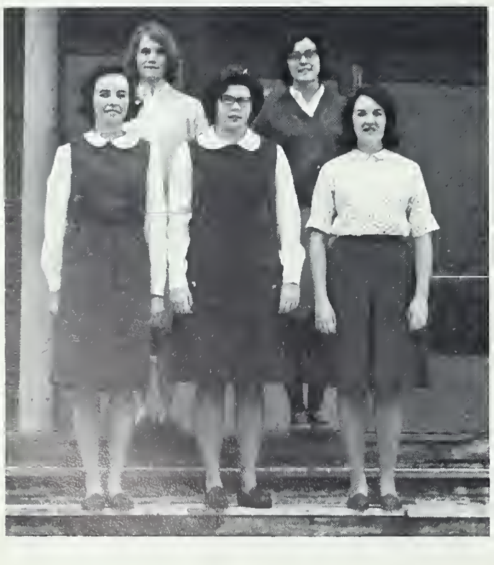
Phys Ed helps

Each year the Myers Park physical education department stresses the importance of good physical and mental health, the ability to think and react quickly and the ability to live in harmony with others. By participating in team sports, the girls learn to develop an attitude of tolerance for weakness and inabilities and an appreciation for skills and good qualities. Through both team and individual sports, they develop sound attitudes, habits, knowledge, and appreciation for the democratic way of life.



GAA SPORTS LEADERS—FIRST ROW: Amelia Powell, Carol Ann Roberts, Nancy Huey, Karen Broome, Sandra Wallace, Linda Edgerton, Joyce Mullis, Alice Trexler, Aggie Nelson. SECOND ROW: Sara Stearns, Mary Elizabeth Culp, Carol Joye, Georgia Vinroot, Jane Deason, Edie Steiger, Debbie Hensley, Julia Graham, Libby Soldati, Nannette Broadwell.

GAA OFFICERS—FIRST ROW: President, Mary Alice Steele; Point Recorder, Sally Dietler; Secretary, Janet Harkey; SECOND ROW: Treasurer, Sue Allison; Vice-President, Carol Ann Roberts.



Energetic girls fight for the puck as Miss Woodruff, class instructor, calmly gives suggestions. Field hockey is one of the most upcoming sports in this area. Girls may participate in field hockey after school as well as during classes.

Girls reach for a high-thrown pass in a fast-action game of touch football. The action and excitement make this winter sport very popular with the girls.

GAA girls get professional instruction from Lester Reynolds, golf pro at Carmel Country Club. Interested girls met once a week for six weeks to learn basic skills or to improve their game.

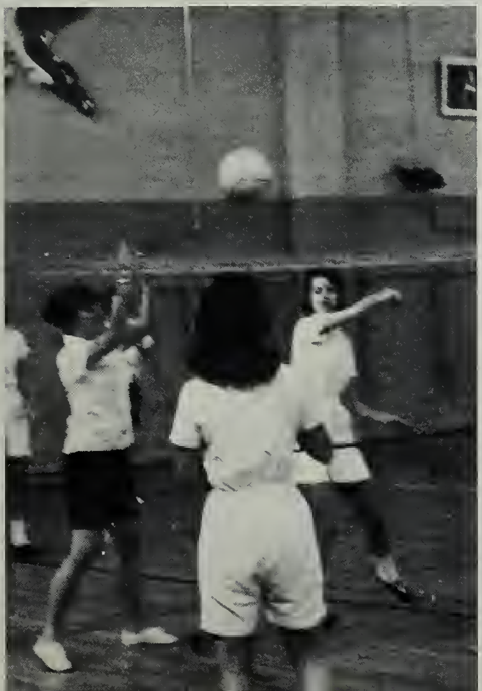
promote sound attitudes, habits

Everyday, after dressing in the required gym uniforms, the girls line up for a ten minute period of calesthenics designed to promote good coordination and correct posture. After calesthenics, the girls take part in a variety of team and individual sports. In the fall, Miss Woodruff and Mrs. Rotan direct the girls in such sports as field hockey, archery, speedball, and table tennis. During the colder months they move into the gym for modern dancing, volleyball, bowling, and first aid.

First aid is a standard program of the physical education department. Mrs. McCracken, the school nurse, demonstrates the general procedure to follow in case of accident or sudden illness. The classes learn to treat shock, poisoning, burns, and wounds. Four times each year the girls undergo a physical fitness test. This test classifies each girl according to her physical ability. It also shows any improvement which has been made between tests.

Carol Joye shows good form in taking a low hurdle. Track and field consists of races, broad jump and hurdles.

The winning team returns the opponent's serve defeating their last chance to tie the score in a game of volleyball.



Opponents jump for the ball during GAA intramural tournament. Basketball, one of the most popular intramural sports, brings many girls to practice sessions and games after school. Girls receive GAA points for practicing and participating in games.

GAA offers the opportunity to learn new skills and

During a bridge game organized by GAA, Aynne Gietzen and Judy Crump pool their knowledge to set the opponent.

In addition to the regular gym program the physical education department offers membership in the Girls' Athletic Association. This organization offers its members an opportunity to participate in a wide variety of sports which are based on the needs and interests of the participants. It gives the unskilled as well as the skilled player an equal opportunity for instruction and participation in the program.

Membership into the G.A.A. is achieved by earning a total of twenty five individual sports and team sport points in one semester. To retain membership, a girl must maintain fifteen team sport points and fifteen individual sport points each semester. Points are gained by participating in the many activities which are offered after school and on week-ends. Points are not given for activities during class hours.

G.A.A. began this year by giving a tea to introduce the new officers and to welcome the old members back. Later in the year a camping trip was organized for the new sports leaders. The responsibilities of these leaders include working in co-operation with the faculty advisor to arouse and stimulate interest in her sport and to promote an ideal of good sportsmanship and fair play.

Archery, under the direction of Jane Deason and Tina Meacham, and speedball, under the direction of Alice Trexler and Libby Soldati, were the first athletic activities of the season. Following these were table tennis, organized by Linda Edgerton and Georgia Vinroot; football, organized by Miss Woodruff; golf organized by Carol Ann Roberts and Amelia Powell; and Field Hockey, organized by Julia Graham and Lynn McQuilkin.

Gymnastics are designed to develop dexterity, strength, and control of the body. A girl must exhibit confidence, precision, and accuracy to use the side horse correctly. Louise Berkeley demonstrates an excellent flank vault.

Playing a GAA intramural basketball game, Mollie Robey turns to see if a shot made by Diana Travis will be good.

develope old ones

The initiation banquet for the admittance of new members marked the beginning of the new semester. The first sport of this semester was basketball, led by Sara Stearns, Nancy Howie, and Joyce Mullis. It was followed by bridge and canasta, led by Edie Steiger and Aggie Nelson; volleyball, led by Debbie Hinsley and Karen Broome; bowling, led by Mary Elizabeth Culp and Carol Joyce; softball, led by Shirley Ferguson and Sandra Wallace; and track and field, led by Nannette Broadwell and Susie Crotts.

At the final banquet of the year girls who have earned the required number of points during the second semester are admitted to the club. Also during the banquet the new officers and sports leaders are presented and awards are given to active members of the club in recognition of their work.

Mary Alice Steele, president; Janet Harkey, secretary; and Julia Graham serve punch and cookies at GAA tea. The tea, held in the foyer, was the first event of the GAA year. It was given to welcome back old members and to introduce the 1964-65 officers.

Beegie Johnson, a phys. ed. II student, demonstrates a head stand, one of the basic skills of tumbling. This is the first year tumbling has been offered at MP.

ABOVE: Mary Ruth Kessaris, Lucy Harrison, Lynn Zagora, Lynn Beyer, Mollie Robey, and Lisa Cothran enjoy their meals at the GAA initiation banquet.

BELOW: Enthusiastic girls chase the ball down the field in an attempt to score the winning goal in an exciting game of speedball. This competitive sport has long been a favorite of MP girls.

GAA provides a variety of sports for MP girls

Dottie Hunneycutt returns the birdie to her opponent during a badminton match. Badminton is offered only in small classes.

To enable girls to show their skills, the MP physical education department provides intramural contests after school in both individual and team sports. Time is provided for supervised practice before the actual games begin. Girls may receive points toward GAA membership by participating not only in the games, but also in the practice sessions. Individual sport winners for 1965 include table tennis champions, Paula Vinroot and Mary Alice Steele and archery champion, Carol Joye. Team sport winners include Mary Martin, Paula Vinroot, Randy Young, Barbara Jones, Nancy Irvine, Cathy Harkey, Linda Genes, Cathy Rehm, field hockey; Debbie Hensley, Nannette Broadwell, Carol Ann Roberts, Karen Broome, Janice Boulware, Nancy Anderson, Vicky Black, and Bobbie Berry, football; Sara Stearns, Libby Soldati, Lynne McQuilkin, Shirley Ferguson, Janet Harkey, Mary Alice Steele, Sandra Wallace, Aggie Nelson, Julia Graham, Elizabeth Culp, Diana Travis, and Alice Trexler, speedball.

The physical education department is gaining more importance each year that it continues at Myers Park. It benefits not only the students but also the school by developing physically and mentally alert students who are better able to serve their school.

Softball is one of the major spring sports. The students learn valuable lessons in good sportsmanship by umpiring the games as well as playing them.

Miss Woodruff gives girls last minute instructions about equipment and rules before they begin to play field hockey.

Bonnie Harkey leads her gym class in a modern dance which she taught them. The students learned a variety of dances, this year ranging from tap dance to the highland fling. Dancing helps girls improve their coordination, posture, and balance.

Administration works to achieve even higher goals

Led by Dr. Lewis the administration at Myers Park this year has done a laudable job. Students make a school, but a faculty makes the students. With such an outstanding academic record from our students this year, our faculty deserves much credit. As superintendent of schools Dr. Phillips has worked closely with Dr. Lewis concerning school matters.

Miss Sifford, Miss Gunter, and Mr. Feimster have helped the exceptionally large senior class with college plans. Dean of Girls Miss Gunter coordinates all student activities. One of the fourteen new faculty members is Miss Poag, scholarship counselor. Respected highly by the students, Mr. Powell carries out the indispensable duties of Assistant Principal.

Last summer the work of the teachers continued as they scattered to various workshops and universities; many participated in the summer program here at MP. As well as carrying out their important job of training minds, the teachers took on the equally important responsibility of shaping characters by serving as advisors to the many clubs and organizations.

English taken by all students for more precise

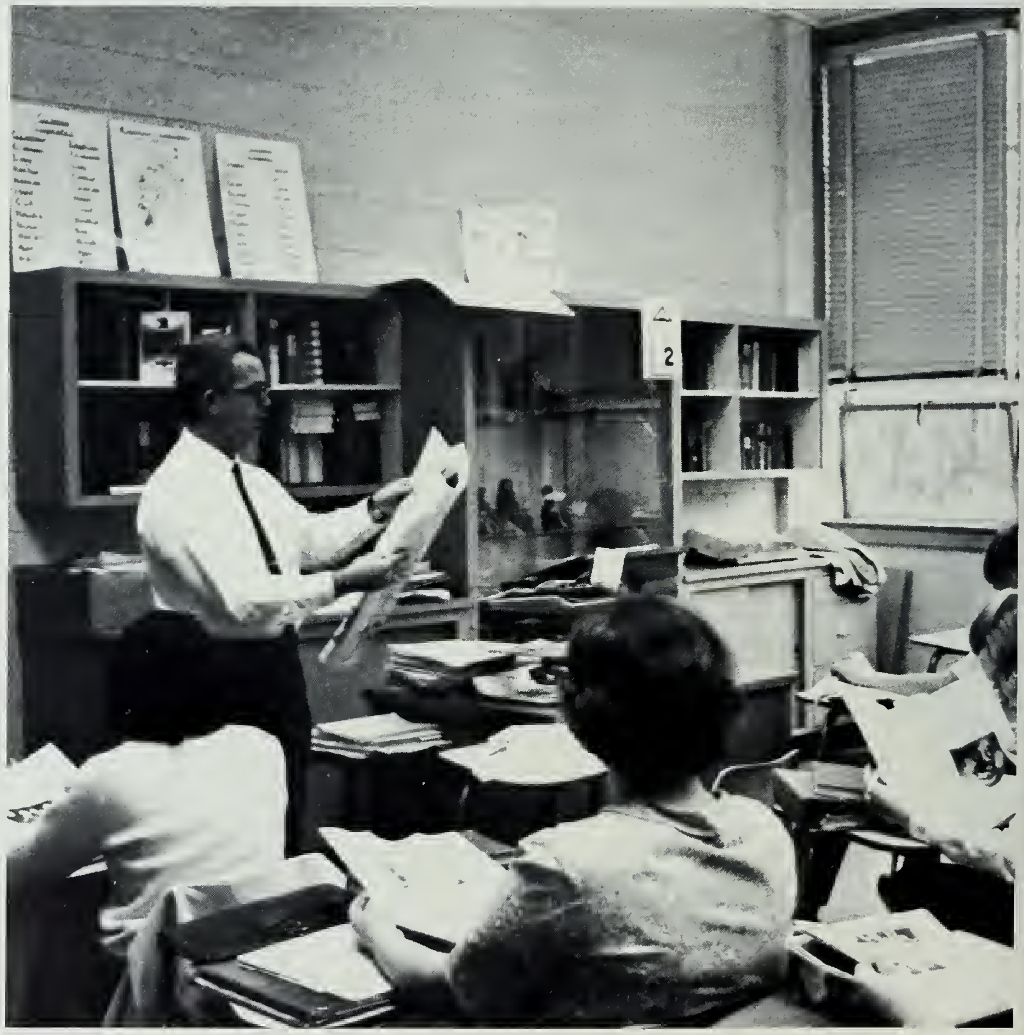
Spanish II students Neill Whitlock, Elsie McGowan, Nancy Hovis, and Nancy Anderson practice a scene from "La posada de Nochebuena," a play about Mexican Christmas customs. The play was performed for the entertainment of their classmates.

English and English-related courses make up a major part of each student's schedule at Myers Park. Four years of English are required for graduation, but there are also literature, dramatics, journalism, and speech courses open to students, as well as an Advanced Placement program to enable advanced seniors to have college level material.

Senior Literature, a semester study of literary classics, and World Literature, a year long course for more advanced students, enable interested students to explore literature. Dramatics students learn techniques of drama production. Journalism I is a course in the principles of newspaper writing; Journalism II, III, and IV are the newspaper staff, the annual staff, and the photography staff respectively.

Sally Seanor speaks at a Speech Club banquet in order to perfect techniques she learned in her class in Public Speaking.

Mr. Sizer discusses principles of newspaper production with his Journalism I class. After this course students may elect to continue in either II, the newspaper staff; Journalism III, the annual staff; or Journalism IV, the photography staff.



communication

Portable consoles were added this year to the Language Department's equipment. These devices enable teachers to make use of tapes in their classrooms instead of taking their classes to the Language Lab. In addition to tapes, foreign language students are often required to bring in outside reports. Material for them is in the library in the form of books, magazines, and encyclopedias written in the languages studied.

Students wishing to take courses in a foreign language have a wide variety from which to choose. Four years of Latin and Spanish are offered, five years of French and three years of German. Started three years ago, German at Myers Park is the newest of all the language courses.

BROADWAY OR

Dramatics students Phillip Shore, Paula Wise, Betsy Newman, Susan Watson, Bob Kelly, Stan Hubbard, Paula Ford, and Lucinda McLendon help Mr. Elmore cast parts for the three one act plays presented by the Dramatics Department in the spring.

Calvin Ridenhour describes the Miller, a character in the CANTERBURY TALES, while his classmates Francine Milam and Gretchen Bard smile appreciatively. All members of Miss Hatchette's classes chose a character from the stories to describe in detail.

Miss Baker writes the names of mythological figures on the board for her Senior Classics class.

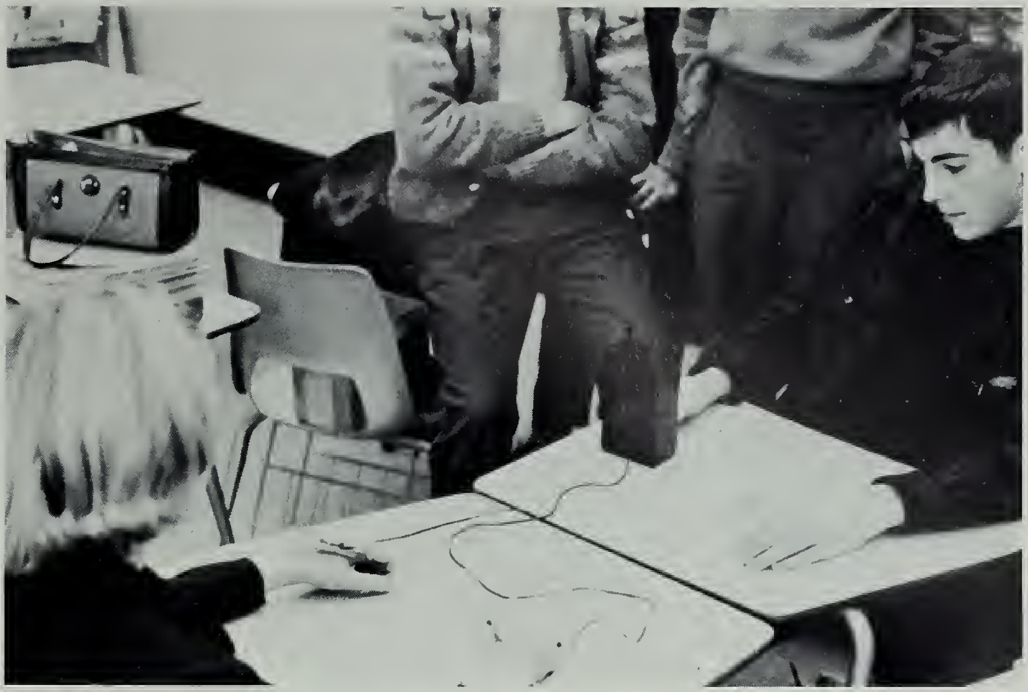
Leslie Smith works on a bulletin board for her class in sociology. Sociology students held interesting discussions on social problems, including a panel of several prominent ministers who discussed moral problems facing the United States today.

David Verner and Peggy Barnes look up the daily stock market returns to check on stocks they "bought" in connection with their economics class. Each student pretended to have a thousand dollars to spend, and checked on the progress of the stock he bought.

Nancy Young does research for a report for her American history class. History students often gave supplementary reports.

Sally Daniel and Ginny Duvall study a relief map of Europe to locate cities mentioned in their world history text.

Martha Rankin points out Alaska to her American history class. Students covered geography along with their history course.



Chuck McConnell asks Linda Gattis questions while she is hooked up to the lie detector he put together himself. The results of interviews with several students were compiled as research data for Chuck's psychology class.

Social studies classes discuss current events

Social Studies courses at Myers Park range from required courses in world and American history to electives such as Economics, Sociology, Psychology, Problems of Democracy, and Bible.

Each student takes world and American history during his three years at Myers Park. World history prepares him with the necessary knowledge for understanding of international problems today; American history covers his democratic responsibilities.

Economics students study trends in world and American finances. Sociology and psychology both relate to the psychological motives behind human actions. Psychology students are interested in inner responses while sociology students study outward trends. Problems of Democracy deals with the responsibilities each citizen faces in a democratic society. Bible students make a detailed study of the stories and history of the Bible.

Frances Hunter works on a chalk sketch of a mural she painted to help her classmates in their study of the Bible.

Patsy Rouzer explains to classmate Pat Jones how the Communist Party is organized. Problems of Democracy students also studied other problem areas in the world as well as the basic responsibilities of each citizen in a democratic society.

Math, science

Math courses at Myers Park include several different subjects which correspond to each student's interests and ability. General Math is a non-college preparatory course offered to tenth, eleventh, and twelfth graders. Students taking this course get a general background in mathematical procedure and principles. Three years of algebra are offered to Myers Park students. Algebra III students get advanced work in this subject.

Hoping to lighten the dreaded news that lab reports were due, Mr. Fulcher informed his physics classes with this timely greeting.

Biology II student Peggy Jones examines frog embryos under the microscope. Biology II gave advanced students an opportunity to get college level material as well as set up and carry out experiments of their own.

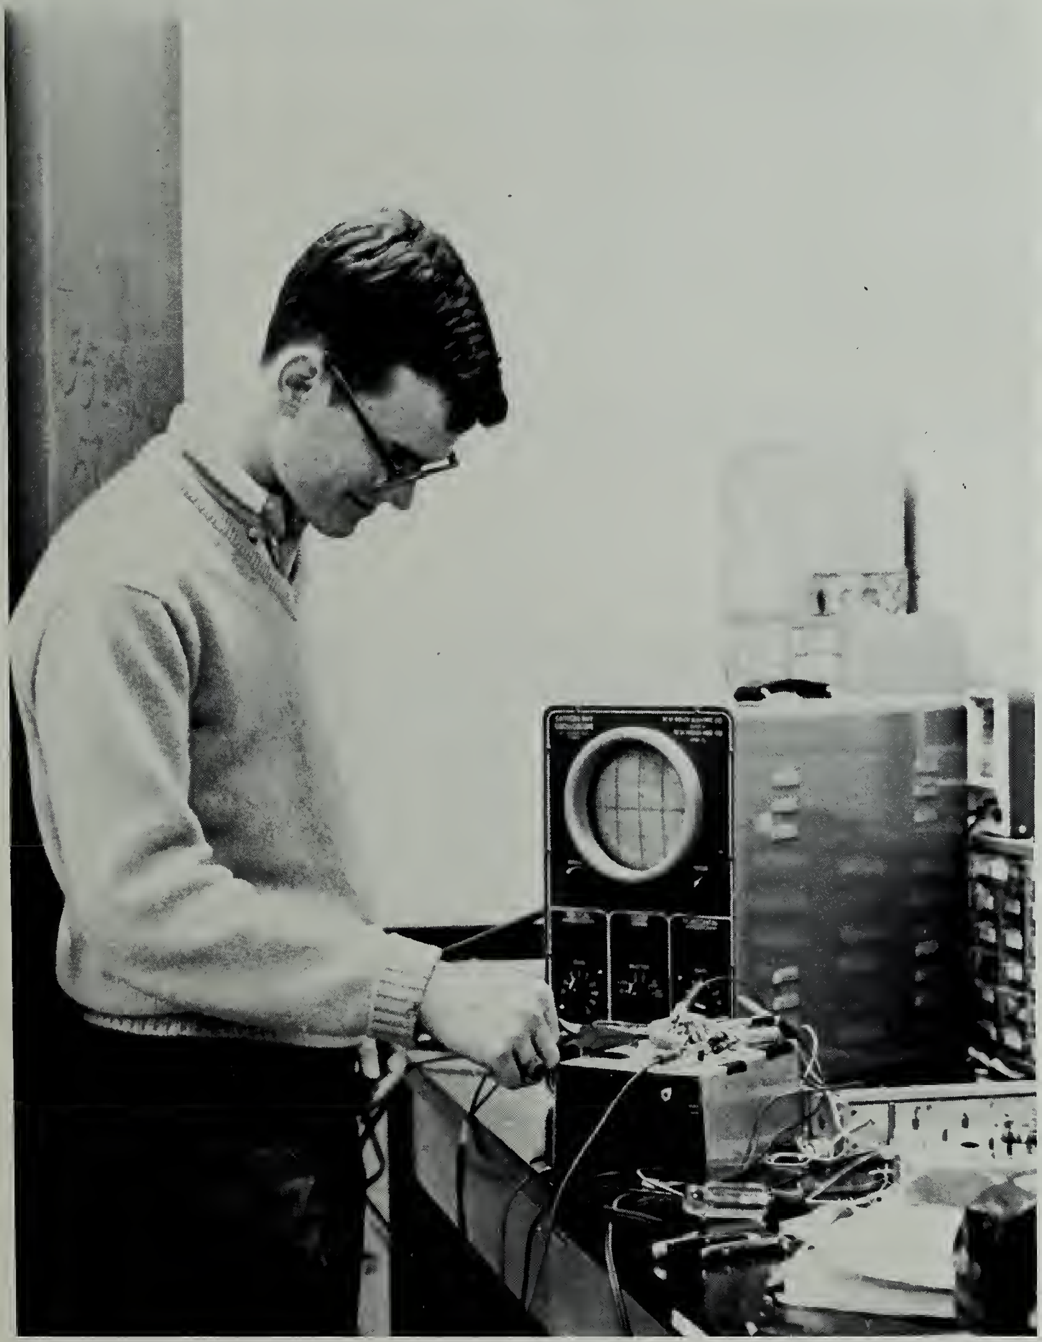
Gail Beyer shows her geometry class the project she made to illustrate geometric shapes and symmetry. Usually taken only after completion of two years of algebra, geometry was offered for the first time this year to those who had finished Algebra I.

courses teach logical pattern for explorations

For the first time, geometry was offered to those who had completed Algebra I. Previously only students who had completed Algebra II were allowed to elect geometry. Algebra and Trigonometry is an advanced course which combines a year of college algebra with a semester of trigonometry. This course includes theory as well as mechanical processes. Mathematical Analysis offers additional work including introductory college calculus.

Myers Park offers a wide range of science courses. Required for graduation is a unit credit in biology and a credit in science if not taken in junior high school. Biology II, an advanced course taken only on completion of Biology I and Chemistry, offers students an opportunity for advanced study and independent research. Senior Science is a course open only to seniors who have not yet had a general science course.

Science courses with lab periods are chemistry and physics. Students in chemistry learn the theory behind chemical reactions, and put their knowledge to practice by performing experiments in lab. Physics students follow a similar procedure when studying the physical laws of the universe. For those who desire more advanced work, and have completed chemistry and physics, Science Research Seminar offers a chance for independent study.



Tom Wilkinson works on parts for a computer he is building as a project for his Science Research Seminar class. Instead of meeting as a class, students worked on individual research projects in fields that especially interested them.

Mrs. Smith helps Algebra III student Keith Faquin to understand a problem. Many take this course for college background.

Applied arts courses prepare students in skills

Theresa Williams and Nickie Alexander work on dresses for their Clothing class. Students learned how to make their own clothes.

Beegie Johnston leaps a hurdle in Physical Education I. In addition to hurdling, students covered other indoor sports such as tumbling, volleyball, and basketball. At least one year of gym is required for graduation from Myers Park.

Office Practice student Don Sprouse learns to use an adding machine swiftly and accurately to add up long columns of figures. Office Practice students learned to use several other office machines to prepare themselves for work in this field.

Family Living students Elaine Senn and Carolyn Rowe work on models of future homes in order to learn interior design principles.

for later life

Applied arts courses at Myers Park include a number of courses that are related in that they prepare the student in a field that involves a skill that can be used after graduation. Students may elect both first and second year Industrial Arts courses. In addition, Mechanical Drawing is offered on two levels for students who wish to learn to draw accurately. One year of Physical Education is required of all Myers Park students for graduation. Physical fitness and individual improvement are stressed in these courses which are offered on first and second year levels.

Distributive Education and business courses are related in that they prepare the individual in skills needed for office work. Business courses include Bookkeeping, Office Practice, Typing, Shorthand, Business Law, and Marketing.

Home Economics students practice skills that they will need to cook and sew for themselves. In addition to Home Economics I and II, Clothing I and II, Foods, and Family Living are offered to those who want background in these fields.

DRIVER EDUCATION

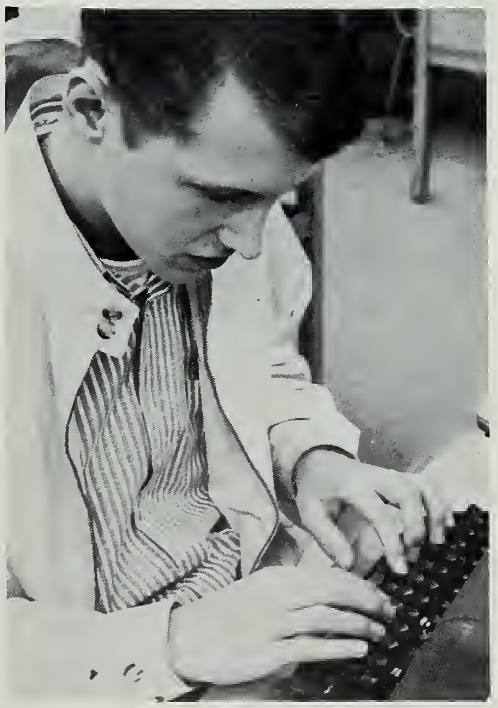
Mrs. Burgess helps Distributive Education students Hank Cadieu, Mike Rash, and Peter Carnrick to find material for reports. Distributive Education classes studied principles of advertising, marketing, psychology, economics, and public speaking.

Tom Apperson works to build up typing speed for his Personal Typing class. This course includes skills needed for personal use.



Students in arts courses learn to use artistic, musical talent

At Myers Park students with musical or artistic talent may elect one of the many fine arts courses open to them. Art I is a course open to tenth, eleventh, and twelfth graders for a semester or a year. Art II and III offer more advanced work for students who have had previous experience.

The excellence of Myers Park's art department is evidenced by the fact that Myers Park students received twenty-six out of fifty Gold Key art awards. Winners were Susan Heyer, Sally Putnam, Ellen Polk, Elizabeth Booker, Drew Gatlin, Paul Harcharik (2), Sally Marion (2), Eleanor Squires, Gretchen Bard (2), Jill Stewart, Frances Hunter, Martha Hardee, Carol Parker (3), Katie Proctor, Linda Fennell, Gina Gilmour (3), and Forest King.

Music courses include Band, Orchestra, A Cappella Choir, Mixed Chorus, Music Appreciation and History, and Music Theory. In Band and Orchestra classes students get a chance to improve their techniques and to practice for the assemblies, shows, and contests they performed in.

In addition to Band and Orchestra, students may elect extra work in Music Appreciation and History or Music Theory. Music Appreciation and History students trace the development of modes of music throughout the centuries. In Music Theory students learn to write music for themselves.

The Choir practices without musical accompaniment. The Mixed Chorus, boys and girls, gives students additional singing experience.

Paul Harcharik receives a Gold Key award for his art work from Mr. Holmes Davis.

Ginny Duvall and Rebecca Martin practice for the many assemblies and contests in which Band members performed.

Mr. Cronstedt directs members of the Chorus and the Choir. These students performed in several programs throughout the year, including several assembly programs and the state contest in which Choir members received an excellent rating.

Newest class finds able leaders in their midst

Muffie Morrison, a typical enthusiastic and busy sophomore, helps decorate the cafeteria for the Valentine's Dance.

Sandy Freeman, another talented sophomore, clinches the part of Charlie Davenport, manager of Buffalo Bill's Wild West show, in the spring musical, ANNIE GET YOUR GUN. This show follows up the tradition of OKLAHOMA! and CAROUSEL in the last two years.

A group of sophomore girls relax during lunch in the new cafeteria. The cafeteria, one of the newest additions to the Myers Park campus, is a welcome change for the entire student body. Later in the day these girls may return to the same spot for one of Myers Park's many committee or club meetings.

Eighteen sophomore representatives together with the class officers comprise the membership of the Sophomore Council. Miss Sifford as sophomore counselor and Mr. Browne as class advisor will serve the group as co-sponsors.

This council, now on an experimental basis, may become a permanent addition to the many Myers Park traditions. Its purpose is to serve as a sounding board for class activities and to allow a representative group to plan activities for the class.

Sophomore class officers were elected soon after the beginning of the second semester. In addition to Randy Short as president, three other officers were chosen by class vote. David Hawkins was elected vice president, Cathy Harkey was selected secretary, and Betsy Smith was chosen treasurer.

The Sophomore Council met to plan activities for the class. A number of activities were suggested including a campus-cleanup project, a sophomore sock hop, and a sophomore picnic.

Eddie Poe, sophomore member of the JV basketball squad, shoots two points against Gastonia in an early season game.

Guard Bill Griffin (49) looks on as Harry Chappell (26), flankerback for the JV's, not only carries the ball but also expertly disengages himself from a blocking opponent. These two boys are only examples of the promising athletes Coach Purcell found among the sophomores.

Junior-Senior reflects imagination of juniors

Another class of imaginative juniors have taken the reins for the annual Junior-Senior Prom. Decorations for the dance were begun in February, even though the dance will not be held until May 15. Heading the committees this year are the following juniors: Ideas — Dick Betts, Jhanet Ledford, and Joanna Hill; Orchestra — Lee Dukes and Betty Freeman; Chaperones — Gillie Spratt and Jane McClain; Decorations — Gina Gilmour and Brandon Rogers; Invitations — Georgia Vinroot and Hunter Meacham; Refreshments — Wanda Fierens and Pat Swinney; Clean-up—Bill Mooney, Cooter Smith, and Gray Payne. Acting as supervisors are the junior class officers. The bulk of the work falls on the shoulders of the entire junior class and a few brave parents. The decorations for the dance are stashed at the McClains', the Gilmours', and the Swinneys'. Bedlam reigns in these homes from 3:30 until ? on weekdays and on the weekends it never ceases! This final dance of the year into which so much work goes is the highlight of the entire school year.

Counsellors

The auditorium serves as a background for the traditional spring assembly where Miss Gunter addresses the junior class en masse while Miss Poag awaits her turn to speak. The rapt attention of the audience shows the concern of underclassmen for their future. The interest the counsellors take in the students is reflected by the close relationship which grows between the staff and the students.

On February 15 the annual junior class assembly stretched from its scheduled one hour into almost three hours. Miss Gunter, Dean of Girls, explained to the juniors the importance of choosing the right college and of applying early. Mr. Feimster discussed college boards and when to take them. Miss Poage, newest member of the counseling committee, is a good friend to have — she can find a scholarship for almost anything to anyplace.

These three counsellors and Miss Sifford make college entrance sound simple, but procrastination is the biggest enemy of the high school senior. Since the question and answer session is not sufficient to answer all questions, individual conferences may be planned during the spring of the junior year and the fall of the senior year.

Senior class officers lead Myers Park forward

As each senior reaches the climax of his high school education and stands before the door to the future, he turns and reviews past experiences. He sees the happiness, joy, and laughter, the tears and disappointments of the past three years. The senior year, however, is the most memorable and meaningful of these. Final College Boards, long-awaited letters of admission, special privileges and preparation for graduation, the night of the Junior-Senior and hours of study for final exams are all memories of a glorious year. Here each senior lays the foundations for future success as he realizes his capabilities and sets his goals in life. From the class that upheld the highest standards as citizens, scholars, and athletes come the men of tomorrow who will retain and cherish these same lofty characteristics. Each senior must leave Myers Park with the confidence that he, himself, has profited from the school that has so faithfully fostered him, and with the hope that he, in turn, has benefited Myers Park.

Committee chairmen work for school improvement

Patsy Surles looks on as Jill Wilson signs out for one of her excused "college days."

This year's class officers have helped Myers Park move ahead in many ways. President Ben Hawfield has led the senior class in participation in such activities to raise funds for a class gift as the Senior Class play, You Can't Take It With You. The senior class also co-sponsored the Valentine Dance.

Vice President Steve Hope has launched a citizenship campaign at Myers Park that will greatly influence the years to come. Citizenship Week has helped make the students of all classes better citizens by promoting honor and sportsmanship.

Secretary Patty Waller and Treasurer Doug Baker, accepting responsible positions in class government, have done fine jobs in meeting the requirements of these offices. Thanks also goes to class advisor Miss Phifer for her invaluable assistance.

The senior co-chairman of the Student Council Committees have added the savoir-faire which has kept these important functions running smoothly. If it were not for the capable guidance of these students the senior class could not fulfill its leadership role at Myers Park.

Representatives to Girls' and Boys' state, an experience in good government, are Susan Marney, Tracy Whittaker, Sharon Baker, and Ben Hawfield.

Calvin Ridenhour, Lois Glasgow, and Alan Speir are Wild Acres representatives.

Junior Rotarians are guests at Rotary Luncheons periodically. Dick Babcock, Van Smith, Calvin Ridenhour, Steve Hope, Joey Aiken, and Ben Hawfield.

This year's Class Day Officers are: Calvin Ridenhour, Prophet; Susan Marney, Historian; Janis Johnson, Poet; Steve Hope, Lawyer.

Diploma committee co-chairman, Jill Wilson and David Verner, discuss certificate forms.

Graduation committees plan year-end activities

The senior class committees are responsible for traditional year-end activities. The Invitation Committee takes orders for each student's invitations and delivers them promptly. The Diploma Committee is in charge of collecting an accurate list of names and ordering the diplomas. Duties of the Cap and Gown Committee include measuring, ordering, and delivering graduation robes and caps. Breakfast and Banquet Committees which must choose a place, print and sell tickets, and make other necessary arrangements. Graduation Speaker and Exercises Committees are responsible for the choice of a speaker and minister, stage and seating arrangements, and choir and orchestra preparations. Selection, purchase, and installation of a class gift are duties of the Gift Committee. The senior class is greatly indebted to the members and advisors of these committees for the time and effort spent in making this graduation the best yet.

FIRST ROW: Foreign Exchange Students attending Myers Park: Martina Hoek, Peter Heidler, and Lulu Targino. SECOND ROW: MP representatives abroad last summer: Janis Johnson, Joey Aiken, and Betsy Murrell.

Ben Hawfield and Bob Crane are this year's Morehead Scholarship Finalists.

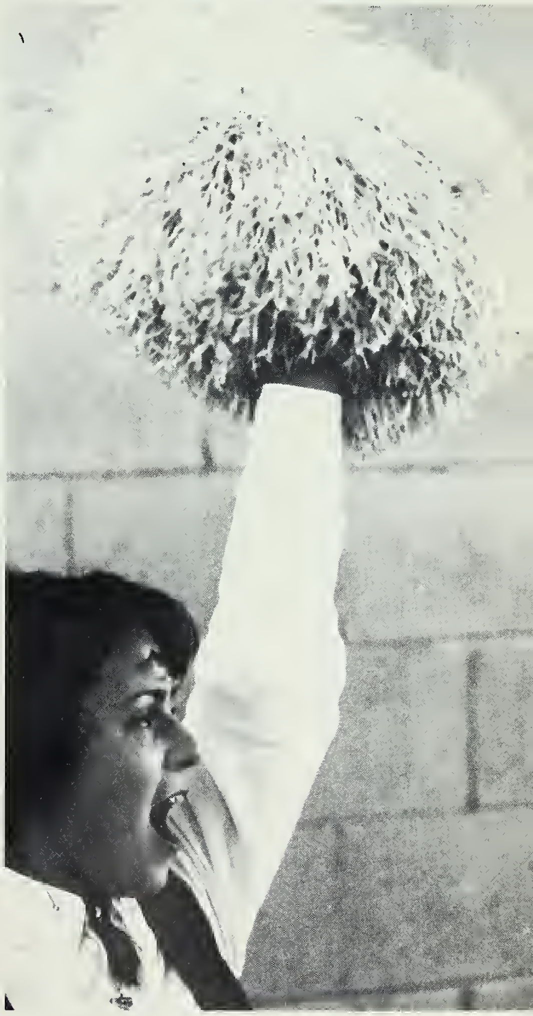
Student Life: MP's reflection

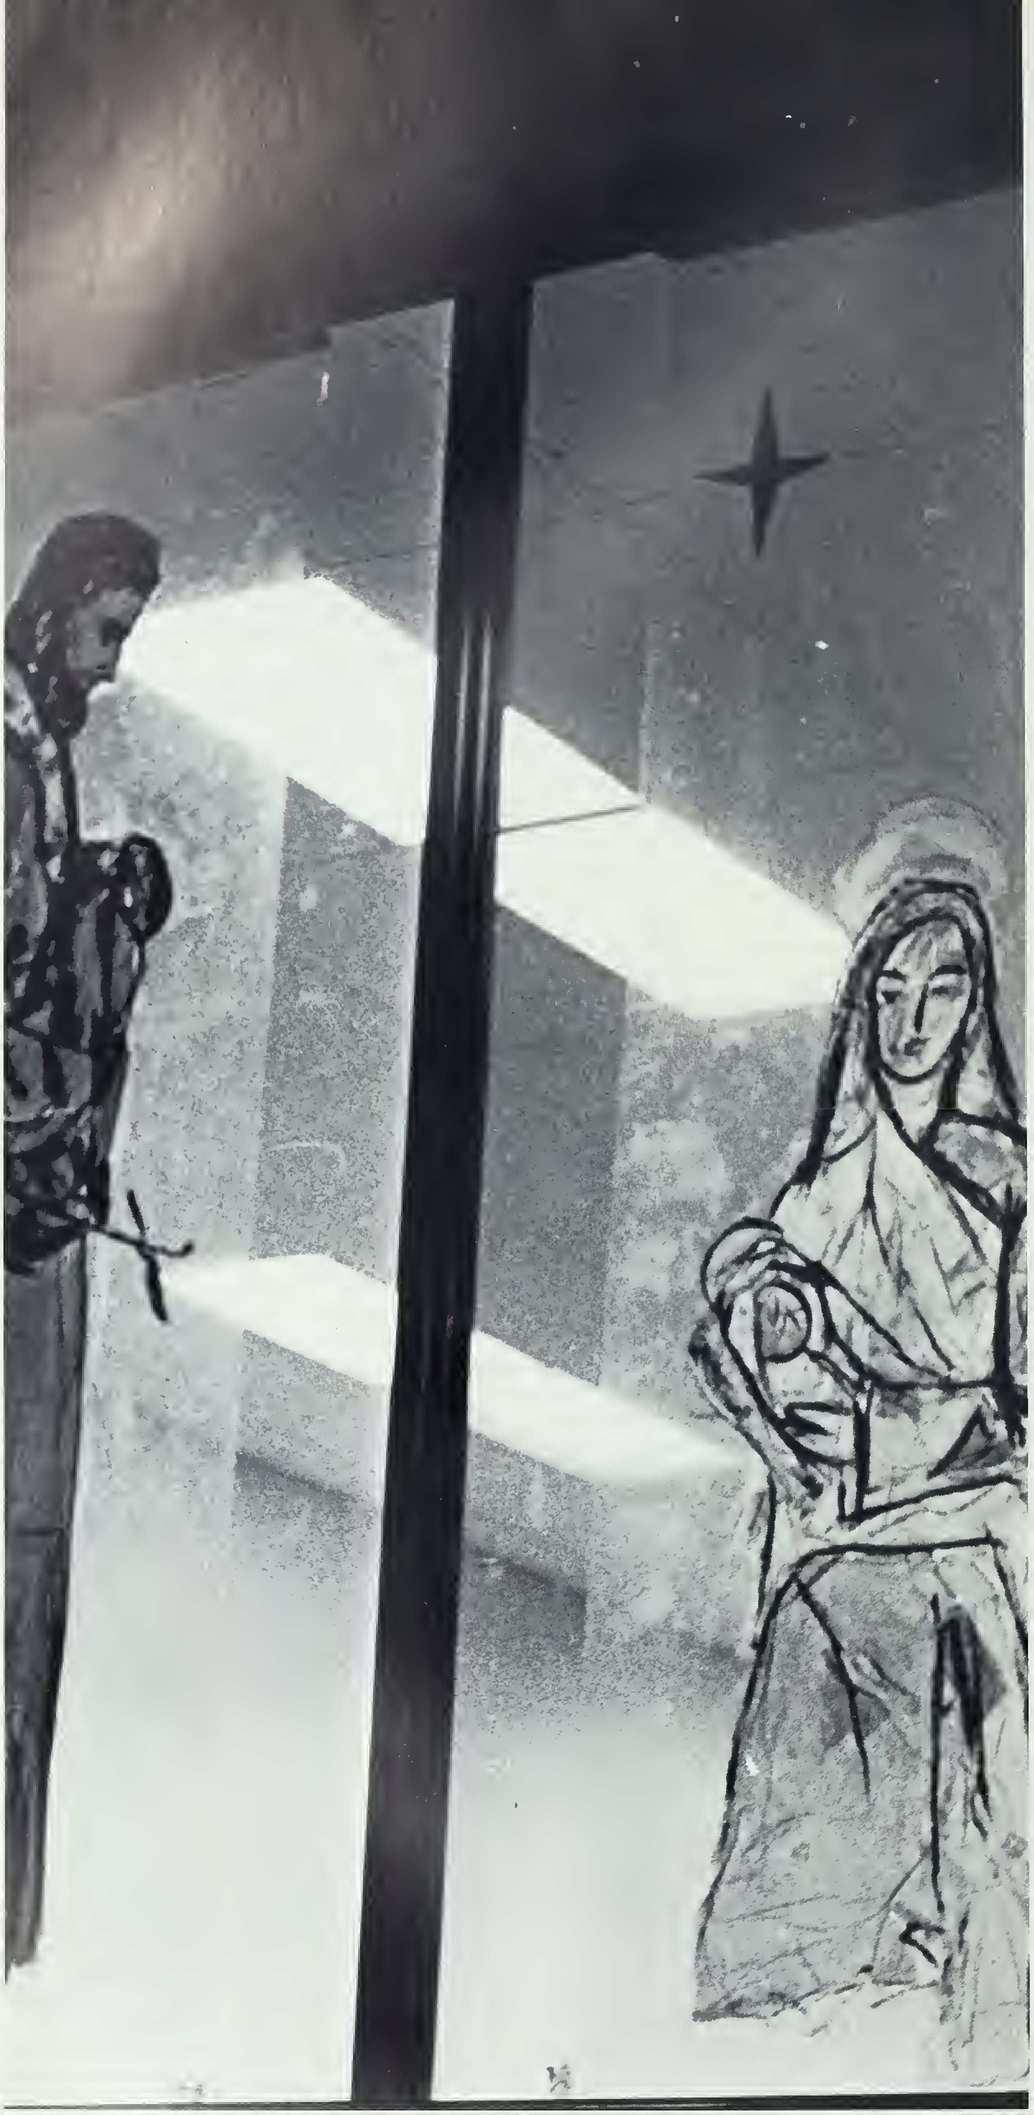
Every time a pretty girl smiles, a cheer reverberates across the field, or a building is filled by hurrying students, a new line is added to Myers Park's contour. In this way, the face of a school is continually drawn and redrawn by the students in that school and their activities—their student life. Myers Park's face is one which reflects every student who crosses its campus, works in its classroom, and feels its spirit. The revision of a school is a constant endeavor. The task is handed from class to class, from student to student, and the responsibility never lessens. However, each student accepts the challenge to strive, to achieve, and to distinguish Myers Park from other schools—and they succeed. It is visibly characterized as Myers Park.

Happiness is one of the most ambiguous moods typical of students. However, when a pretty girl smiles, there can be no doubt as to her meaning. Perhaps the team won the game or made a touchdown—in any case, the smile means she's happy.

The back entrance to SC is a familiar sight for all Myers Park students. One of the nine buildings on the campus, it has the typical long, low lines that characterize all of the school structures.

Pompons in a cheerleader's hands are the symbols of spirit. They recall memories of cheers and winning teams.





Handsome campus

The campus is the first distinguishing feature of a school. Myers Park's campus has an air which is distinctly its own. Built much like a college campus, the general layout is horizontal and spreading with the outer boundaries of the gym and biology building, a little more than five minutes apart.

When approaching the school from Colony Road, one first notices the Student Center or SC. This nucleus of activity is constantly swaying to the sounds of slamming locker doors in the halls, clattering dishes in the cafeteria, ringing telephones in the offices, and general confusion in every corner. Here one finds the bookstore and student lounge where paper may be bought and football discussed.

One of the several recent improvements of the campus directly affects the SC building. A new cafeteria addition has provided more space for the almost 1,800 students to eat lunch. The large windows allow a view of the campus and a prominent display area for art work. Other recent work done at Myers Park included enlargement and paving of the parking lots.

After enlargment of the parking lot behind SC, a misplaced fire hydrant became a danger to drivers and was moved.

The windows of the new cafeteria addition provide an effective space for murals depicting Christmas scenes.

plays integral part in distinction of school

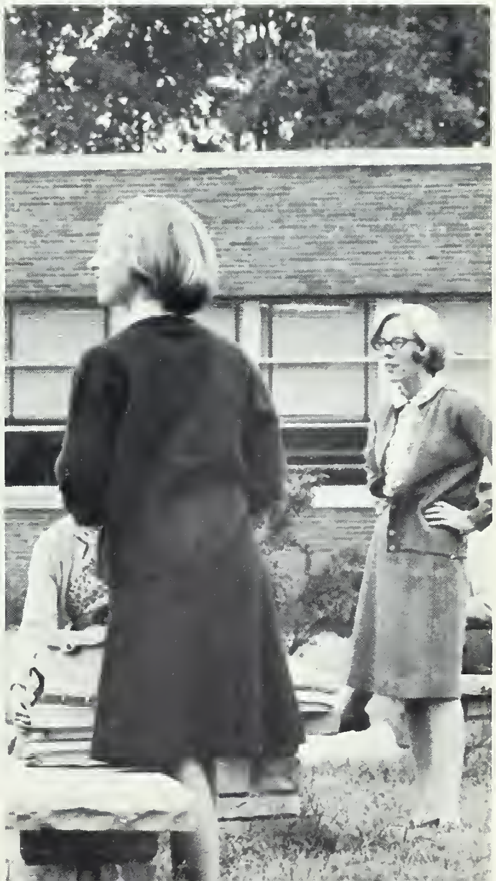
The center of the campus is occupied by a peculiarly shaped structure known as the Language Arts building. The dominant feature of this building is the extensive library. Surrounded by language, history, and English classrooms, the library is a convenient haven for busy students during lunch or between classes. Rare is the student who is not familiar with LA and does not attend a class there or one of the meetings held after school in the classrooms.

The Technical building, the new classroom building, the Physics and Biology buildings house a variety of subjects at the west end of the campus. Swishing brushes and humming blades accent the picture of creative students at work in art, world literature, and applied art courses in "Tech." The new classroom building was designed to allow room for smaller, more advanced classes throughout the school, and shelters varied classes, including three labs for chemistry and physics. Both the Physics building and Biology building are completely given over to biology and natural science courses such as Senior Science.

The late afternoon sun shines on the Myers Park campus through the smoke from the boiler plant furnaces. Usually a symbol of the end of day, the setting sun often serves as a reminder to many students that they must attend an evening meeting at the school.

Charlie Baker, Susan Hout, Bob Crane, and Chase Saunders find the Student Lounge a useful place for study and discussion. Many students also find the lounge a good place to meet friends and discuss the events of the day.

Judy Strickland, Candy Caddell, and Libby Stokes discuss the day's activities as they wait at the circle for their rides.



Various buildings house scenes of animated work

Between SC and LA, the Auditorium and Math and Business building are located. The Auditorium is the setting for several productions during the year which provide background for students with many talents. Experiences in light, sound, and set production are available in addition to understanding in dramatic and musical techniques. The "Math" building is best characterized by clicking typewriters and frustrated math students. Used only for the teaching of mathematics and several business courses, the building adheres strictly to its name.

Cecil Hawes makes a jump shot at a conference tournament game with Harding. The basketball team, as well as the other athletic teams, did very well in both conference and non-conference games.

Eric Chapman and Paul Harrington give the school grounds a thorough going over. As Monogram Club members, they help keep the campus clean.

A sudden snow flurry sends Mustangs scurrying for cover. Weather men had not foreseen the wet conditions and most students were totally unprepared. However, the students welcomed the rare snow as a possible means of missing a day of school.

Mrs. Townsley weighs Marion Copeland in the health room. Mothers of students work in the health unit each day.

throughout day

The gymnasium is the personification of Myers Park's spirit. Here individuals and teams compete for victories. Here pep rallies and school spirited skits produce a gay atmosphere in which the foe is always unmercifully slaughtered. Here voices strain and muscles tense. Pompons wave and the band brings clapping students to their feet. Physical education classes held in the gym make the air static with energy. Certainly the most energetic and enthusiastic Mustangs are more at home here than anywhere else on campus.

In the bedlam of the art room, Forrest King seeds the refuge of the closet where, surrounded by paintings in many different styles, he works on the potters' wheel. Forrest uses clay, one of the various media which art students may employ.

Students in the library discuss problems in one of their courses. Library facilities are invaluable to students who make full use of the more than 12,000 books for reference, research, and enjoyment.

Finished in the late summer, the new cafeteria expansion furnishes much extra room for students during their lunch periods. Spacious and airy, the annex also has a lovely view of the campus and provides an extra area for meetings after school.

The rising sun filters through the trees surrounding the SC parking lot and gym on an early fall morning.

Mike Woodall concentrates on his homework in the sophomore-junior study room. Students must work steadily to keep up with the competition for good grades and academic recognition. Students must also work to maintain high social standards.

leading students honored by numerous awards.

A school is most prominently marked by the achievements of its students. These students distinguish themselves in many areas, both academic and social. With the pressure placed on the student and the competition he faces, high academic achievement is difficult to obtain and highly honored. However, academic achievement implies more than mere scholastic attainment. It includes qualities of leadership, service, and character.

To be representatives of their school, they are selected by local organizations, fellow students, and their teachers. Despite the method by which they are chosen to receive their specific award, these students add to the betterment of their school and community. Through active participation in both the classroom and extracurricular activities, they distinguish themselves and their school. They deserve to be classified as outstanding students.

Ben Hawfield received the Harvard Book Award in his junior year in recognition of his outstanding qualities.

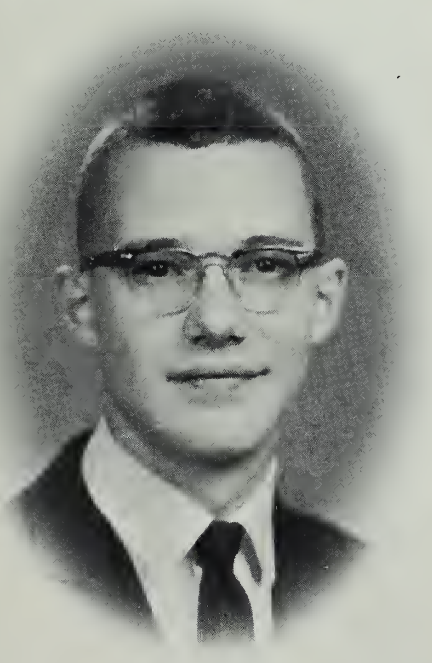
Several special honors are conferred upon students at Myers Park every year as a means of recognizing well qualified leaders in school activities. The qualities of character, scholarship, leadership, and service are acknowledged by the National Honor Society. The top students of the upper classes are initiated into its ranks at several times during the year.

The Harvard Book Award is presented to a deserving boy at the end of his junior year. Given by the Harvard Book Club, the award is based on the outstanding traits demonstrated by the student.

Each year, the DAR Good Citizen Award is conferred on the girl embodying the highest qualities of citizenship. The honor is awarded by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Danforth Awards are highly coveted awards which are given each year to two seniors who are chosen by their classmates for the merit of school leadership.

Adding another honor to his already long list of achievements is Ben Hawfield, winner of the Danforth Award.



The final Honor Society induction of the year saw the third five percent of the senior class and the first five percent of the junior class initiated into its ranks. The inductees, tapped en masse rather than singly, received their ribbons and badges individually.

John Hutcheson portrays Jed Clampett, a television personality, at the Honor Society banquet.

Students stimulated by programs and well coordinated schedule

During the year, students are exposed to many academic stimulants. A student's daily schedule may include a variety of subjects. Each course is designed to offer the best material to the student and to stimulate the formation of new ideas. Interesting electives are offered and the student may choose the area which interests him most.

Students also have the opportunity to listen to several interesting speakers throughout the year. By exposure to the opinions of many orators, students are able to broaden their own views. By questioning and examining these new ideas, they develop their own theories.

Foremost among the prominent speakers who appeared before the students were Dr. George Crane, the syndicated columnist, and Dr. Laysemeier, a speaker on world affairs.

Juniors take Preliminary Scholastic Appitude Tests in the early fall in preparation for college boards, to be taken their senior year. The National Merit Scholarship tests are taken by talented students late in their junior year. The results of this examination are announced early the next year and the semi-finalists may compete for the envied scholarships. Students who qualify as semi-finalists and letter of commendation winners represent the top two percent of the nation's scholars.

The Sewanee Award for Excellence is sponsored by the Sewanee Club of the University of the South. Presented each year to a junior boy, the award honors character, scholarship, and leadership. The student best displaying these qualities is chosen by the faculty.

Students pour from the Student Center building on their way to early morning classes. The walkway is a main thoroughfare for students, but becomes an obstacle course of puddles and pools when it rains.

Dr. George Crane spoke to students on the rules of good conversation and imitation of high qualities in others.

National Merit Letter of Commendation winners were Bob Cunningham, Randy McClean, Lynn Allison, Kathy McGregor, and Claudette Harloe. As Letter of Commendation winners, these students ranked just below the semi-finalists in test scores.

The faculty chose David Verner to receive the Sewanee Award for Excellence for his outstanding leadership endeavors.

Going to take their PSAT tests, juniors Leslie Gywnn, Cam Voss, and Nell Ward receive their room number from Mr. Barber.

Diversified phases of student

Bob Crane sings "Tonight" in the Talent Show sponsored by the Limelighters and the junior class. The theme was "Night and Day."

Spirit is an indefinable word. For different people, it produces different images. Most often spirit is thought of as nine bouncing girls with pompons. It is the symbol of winning and losing gracefully. This spirit is highest when the game is in overtime or the band plays a fight song. It is personified in booster cards and banners; in pep rallies and in the pompons sold the day of the game.

There is a spirit in achievement too. A song well sung in a school production or a prize winning painting shows spirit. Barbeques and elections are imbued with the mood. It is found in good grades and smiles of pride and is prominent in solved math problems and finished term papers.

Spirit is membership. Spirit is participation in a club, rehearsal with a cast, or practice with an orchestra. Friends to sit with at lunch, carpools, and classmates are elements of fellowship. The biggest membership unit is the school. Every student is a member of the institute of learning and every student adds to its distinction.

Spirit is looking back on three years at Myers Park and feeling a sense of pride in belonging to a distinctly characterized school.

Monogram Club pledges display school spirited posters at the East football game as part of their initiation. The new boys also had to shave their heads and wear sport coats and blue jeans to school.

life at Myers Park yield many forms of spirit

Spirit is a campus of which students are proud. They enjoy displaying the advantages of the well-designed buildings to visitors. Clubs may show their campus pride by spending a Saturday morning cleaning the grounds or committees may spend an afternoon painting signs and posters to hang in the halls.

Beauty, in all its forms, is another facet of Myers Park's unique spirit. Each student adds his own form of beauty to the school's spirit. The beauty may be a homecoming queen or a cafeteria transformed for a dance. A well-written speech and a graceful athlete create a beauty and spirit all their own.

Spirit contains all of these elements plus one more—memory. The vague memories remain after the cheers die down, the club members separate, the trophies accumulate dust, and the beauty fades. Something different remains—a feeling that spirit is not something that a student could hold or point out, but a mood. The spirit was a winning mood, a learning mood, a gay mood and it changed for each student it reached. For the majority, it will be remembered and symbolized by the cheer that was always the loudest, "I'm a Mustang, couldn't be prouder."

Mothers of students help pack barbecue for take-out orders during the annual affair sponsored by the PTA. The money netted was use d for support of intramural activities and a teachers' health fund.

As Patsy Rouzer watches, Greg McClure talks to the student body at a pep rally in the gym before one of the games.

During Thanksgiving, Jane Wood, Cindy Hathcock, and Staten Wilcox pack canned goods given by Myers Park students to needy fam ilies. The student council is in charge of the annual collection.

Martina Hoek, exchange student from the Netherlands, represented Myers Park as Carousel princess.

Yearly presentation of awards

Each year, several events take place which call for special recognition of students at Myers Park. Some honor a single student, others an entire team or group. Whatever the occasion, the commended students are those who have contributed most the distinction of the school.

The Johnsonian, the student newspaper of Winthrop College, sponsors the Miss Hi-Miss contest each year. Participating schools chose the girl who has shown an active interest in all school affairs. The representative appears in the special Miss Hi-Miss issue of the Winthrop newspaper.

The titles of Mr. and Miss Myers Park are the climax of three years of service and dedication for the students chosen to receive the honor. Elected by their classmates from a list of nominees compiled by the student council, this well-rounded couple symbolizes the highest qualities of character, leadership, and dependability to their classmates.

Elected by the student council, the Carousel Princess represents Myers Park in the annual Thanksgiving Parade. Myers Park's princess rides on the same float with the King and Queen and is presented at the Carousel Ball preceding the parade.

The Dance Committee was responsible for the festive and unforgettable Homecoming Dance. Using the theme, "Autumn in the South", the committee members fashioned a fall countryside for the presentation of the homecoming queen and her court. The queen is chosen by the football team and the court by their respective classes. Senior Football players are represented by their sponsors.

The Christmas Dance was centered on the motif of "Songs and Poems of Christmas." The halls were "decked with holly" and the student lounge boasted a large sled to use for "dashing through the snow." The cafeteria was decorated with snowy village scenes and large bells.

Pretty Lindsay Wheatley was selected Miss Hi-Miss by her classmates because of her vivacious qualities.

The students of Myers Park chose, as Mr. and Miss Myers Park, the couple which they think embodies the highest qualities of loyalty and friendship to their classmates and school. The honor went to Ben Hawfield and Betsy Murrell.

recognizes well-rounded students in many areas

Students admire the large sled made by the Dance Committee for the student lounge. To carry out the theme of "Songs and Poems of Christmas", the student lounge became the scene of the re-enaction of the verses of "Jingle Bells."

Many students at Myers Park exhibit outstanding traits in many areas of school activity. Of these students a number of seniors receive Honor Awards each year. The awards honor Dr. Jack Horner, principal of Myers Park High School, for his faithful service and leadership to the school in its early formative years from 1955 to 1960. The honor was established in 1962 as a method of distinguishing those students who had unselfishly given of their time and talent for the betterment of the school.

Dedicated teachers invaluable

The relationship between students and faculty can not be over emphasized. The teachers have the responsibility to inspire their students and often, the patient teacher who encourages the best from his pupils becomes the difference in the student's failure or success.

Throughout high school, a student looks to his teacher for support. At Myers Park, this need for guidance and understanding is always amply fulfilled by teachers who show, through their sincerity, interest, and humor, that they are truly dedicated to the students' welfare.

George Ducker tries out for a part in the musical, ANNIE GET YOUR GUN, presented in May.

Individual personalities of students add to MP

Typical of Myers Park faculty members, Miss Dixon gives some of her free time to help a student in his studies.

Coach Hartman, fourth period cafeteria supervisor, shows his school spirit by adding to the general melee in the lunchroom on the day before the game. This willingness of a teacher to support school activities with the students is one of the traits of the Myers Park faculty.

Students, pupils, scholars—whatever epithet is given them, they are the first and most important part of a school.

They read, sing, and draw. Some cook, sew, or write. They manage to squeeze by in courses with a minimum of work and they remember the silliest jokes but forget their homework assignments. They are sometimes embarrassing, often amazing, and usually a pleasure to know.

Although frustrated, pushed, and occasionally defeated, they meet success and failure with the same poise. Their desire to know and be known is insatiable.

During their high school years, they make friends to last a lifetime, waste time they can never recall, and gain a certain amount of satisfaction from doing well. They are impulsive, funny, and wonderful. They are crazy teenagers.

Student cheerleaders Dave Badger, and Harry Demik try a new type of shot at the student-faculty game which the students won.

Atha King signs out Peter Clark for a college day. Seniors wishing to visit a college campus for interviews may get special permission for an excused absence through the main office.

Three years: too little time

Students are motion. They circulate, participate, and diffuse throughout every phase of school activity.

During the day, hurried forms scurry from class to class. A busy seven period schedule demands much time and attention. Dates must be made and programs planned. Lessons are read and papers prepared. Three years becomes too little time to learn all that the student wants to know and he must run to keep up with the competition. After school, there are meetings and discussions to attend. Musical productions and conventions must be organized and executed.

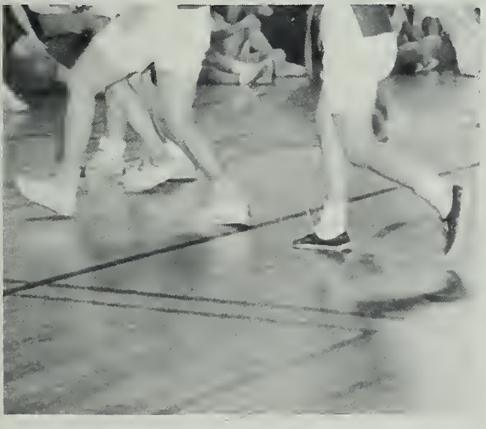
However, the rush of the school day does not completely explain the mobility of a student. He is in a hurry to grow and know. The contents of books are not enough. There are people to meet and places to visit. After graduation, he has a whole new world to discover and he is in a hurry.

After winning the 4-A conference championship by beating East, the boys on the team look first to Coach Hartman. They realize that no matter how much natural ability they may have, the coach is responsible for molding them into a winning team.

Mrs. Rotan laughs—displaying one of the qualities found in the good teacher who shares a humorous moment with her students.

The cheerleaders go through their motions at a pep rally before the basketball team leaves for the championship game.

The mobility of a hand symbolizes the movement of students in their search for recognition and knowledge.



Active feet move through three years of hurried motion at Myers Park.

Hurry. Scurry. Students on the way to classes rush past another waiting student. Heavy schedules, extracurricular activities, and special projects constantly demand a fast pace from each student.

Jackie Frost, Ellen Law, Bob Crane, Joey Aiken, and Betsy Murrell welcome visitors to the student council tea. The tea, sponsored by the Public Relations Committee, honored student council officers from all of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg schools.

Julia Graham finds a moment of solitude even in the crowds that surround the snack bar in the gym.

Leftout Erwin Heeseman cuts through a gaping hole off left tackle as she romps to another Mustang TD.

This has got to be a joke.
I don't like you either.
Kiss me quick.
He uses Clairol—I can tell.
I really don't want my picture taken.
My Mom said to be sure and stand up straight.

Without the assistance and cooperation of many people we would not have been able to produce the 1965 Mustang. To the following individuals and groups we express our sincere thanks:

Mr. Frank Fleming, Consultant, Delmar Printing Company;

Mrs. Maxine Jenkins, and Mrs. Anne Hoyle, Layouts, Delmar Printing Company;

Mr. Ralph Criminger, Art Director, Delmar Printing Company;

Mrs. Virginia Christenbury, Mrs. Jean Howarth, Beverly Studio, senior portraits;

Mr. Bill Renfro, Delmar Studio, underclass portraits;

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Aull, beauty portraits;

Dr. Lewis and the Myers Park faculty;

The Myers Park student body;

The 1965 Staff and Homeroom Representatives;
Mr. Leslie Browne, Advisor;

And the parents and other friends of Myers Park who have supported the Mustang as Sponsors and Patrons.

Rosemary and Susan
